FOREWORD

We give you the 1945 INDEX . . .

a war-time book with a peace-time outlook that has struggled to publication through material shortages and the red-tape of priorities . . .

an endeavor to record the history of Illinois State Normal University in her eighty-eighth year and to envision her future.

STUDENT LIFE

To a new ISNU in a new world a world of freedom and peace
a world of growth and achievement
a world of education at its best

Today as we move against the terrible scourge of war . . . as we go forward toward the greatest contribution that any generation of human beings can make in this world . . . the contribution of lasting peace, I ask you to keep up your faith. I measure the sound, solid achievement that can be made at this time by the straight-edge of your own confidence and your resolve. And to you, and to all Americans who dedicate themselves with us to the making of an abiding peace, I say:

The only limit to our realization of tomorrow will be our doubts of today. Let us move forward with strong and active faith.

Franklin D. Roosevelt

RAYMOND W. FAIRCHILD, PH. D., LL. D.

PRESIDENT, ILLINOIS STATE NORMAL UNIVERSITY

This is the fourth Annual published by the students of Illinois State Normal University during World War II. Although our University has passed through four major wars, the present conflict has much more widely involved our alumni, students, and faculty at home and in all parts of the world, and has commanded the services of the University to a far greater extent than did the three previous wars. Early in this war, Illinois State Normal University cooperated with the federal government in educating civilians for industrial and agricultural activities; later, the University established pre-service Army and Navy student programs, which culminated first in the Navy V-5 air corps training, and finally in the Navy V-12 program in operation since July, 1943.

The great and original purposes of this professional school, however, have not been submerged during these strenuous years. Looking to a future free from war, the University as a whole has tried to maintain those significant characteristics inherited from its founders and preserved by students and faculties throughout its more than four-score years of brilliant history. The teaching profession is being served by an ever-expanding and more intensive program, including the recently introduced graduate work and a large program for the education of teachers for handicapped children. To meet the building needs for a very comprehensive teacher education program that will serve at least 2500 students, the University has presented to the Illinois Post-War Planning Commission proposed buildings and land acquisitions totaling $14,000,000.

Capable students, a superior faculty, adequate equipment, increased physical plant, a wide range of course offerings well presented, and continued emphasis upon teaching as a profession should provide a combination that will keep Illinois State Normal University in the fore-front among teacher-educating institutions in the United States.

R. H. Linkins
Dean of Men

Anna L. Keaton
Dean of Women

Since its beginning in 1938, President R. W. Fairchild has been chairman of the Administrative Council, which meets in his office upon call at intervals from two days to two weeks. Its function is to consider immediate administrative problems.

In addition to routine details, five major fields were acted upon this year: the setting up a program for returning war veterans; approval of a campus Intercultural Club; a study of grades given and the resultant honor point average for the University; improvement of the internal organization and procedures of the University; and consideration of the publicity and public relations program.

All members are ex-officio: the President, as executive head of the institution, assigns duties and localized responsibility; Dean C. A. DeYoung keeps the internal machinery working to carry out the established program by building and administering the schedule for all curricula and presides in the absence of the President.

The registrar, Miss Elsie Brenneman, has complete charge of admissions, registrations, and copy for the catalogues. Dr. Anna L. Keaton, dean of women, and R. H. Linkins, dean of men, counsel students in matters of housing, employment, health habits, and personal and social adjustment.

The director of the training schools serves as the coordinating agency between the campus laboratory schools and the rest of the University. The director of integration encourages measures designed to harmonize and unify the development of prospective teachers. Two new members this year are Dr. A. H. Larsen, assistant to the Dean, and Dr. L. A. Holmes, administrative assistant to the President.

First row: Miss Elsie Brenneman, Registrar of the University; Dr. A. H. Larsen, Assistant Dean of the University; Dr. J. W. Carrington, Director of Student Teaching; Floyd T. Goodier, Director of Integration; Dr. L. A. Holmes, Administrative Assistant to the President; Dr. Anna L. Keaton, Dean of Women; Dr. C. A. DeYoung, Dean of the University; R. H. Linkins, Dean of Men; Dr. R. W. Fairchild, President of the University.

The University Senate is composed of officers of the administration, directors of divisions, department heads, the head librarian, director of Fell Hall, and principals of affiliated schools. President R. W. Fairchild is chairman of this legislative body organized in 1935. Dean C. A. DeYoung is vice-president and Registrar Elsie Brenneman is secretary.

To determine school policies, the Senate meets the first Tuesday of each month. This smaller group acts on matters to avoid the necessity of bringing all business before the entire faculty of 181. The faculty group meets one week later to discuss matters requiring faculty action and to receive information about the activities of the administration and the Senate.

THE FACULTY

Don't look now, but there's "Prof" . . . removing his spectacles . . . polishing them carefully . . . adjusting them deliberately . . . clearing his throat officially . . . mentally noting that vacant chair in the back.

Freshmen wonder not a little at these rather awesome men and women possessed of A.M. and Ph.D. degrees who serve as their counselors and instructors and seem to know the answer to any problem in the book, yet live and look like other human beings . . . Little do they know that behind each absorbed, scholarly face may lie such images as making a hole in one on the dewy golf course . . . a final struggle with an income tax report . . . a victory garden that awaits weeding . . . that free-period cup of coffee with a few colleagues at a nearby campus hangout.

For the real faculty pastimes seem to be . . . compiling bibliographies . . . making red ink hieroglyphics on term papers . . . fishing unexpected assignments from well worn brief cases . . . conceiving diabolical examinations . . . posting heartless final grades.

But members of this distinguished group also utilize few-and-far-between spare moments with faculty meetings . . . registration day duties . . . important committee questionnaires . . . conventions in big cities . . . speeches before women's clubs . . . magazine articles . . . books on subjects of specialization.

And still other faculty occupations . . . counseling students from Hickville County . . . sponsoring clubs and saying "a few words" at banquets . . . chaperoning at school dances . . . timing at athletic events . . . teaching the "boys in blue" . . . teaching adult education and extension classes . . . displaying unsuspected histrionics in the annual Stunt Show and deserving first prize but not getting it . . . supervising conventions and presiding at conferences on campus.

By the time the frightened freshman is a sophisticated sophomore he discovers that his instructor is not only his teacher but his friend. He realizes that the faculty have been around a little longer than he has, and know the world a little better, and may be trusted to listen sympathetically when discouraging problems seem overwhelming.

And what senior walking between those impressive black-robed figures on his graduation day does not congratulate himself on the wise counsel and friendship he has found among them?

"Sailor" offers refreshments to faculty guests at the Navy ball. Dr. Cole and Mr. Mercier ride horses from the University farm in the outdoor circus during the Summer Session. Dean Keaton pours at the tea honoring Graduate students at the home of Dean and Mrs. DeYoung.

GRADUATE STUDENTS

The first time won't be the last time in the case of graduate students . . . they're here to stay . . . a total of 41 workers all with eyes ahead on a Master's degree . . . 15 of these are studying to be secondary teachers and nine are to be principals of secondary schools, they hope . . . the rest are in special education, elementary, and unclassified.

Since 1937 the Graduate committee has been preparing for the time when the advanced program would be undertaken . . . such an action just didn't "come out of the blue" . . . it was the result of long-time planning and careful study.

A total of 94 courses offered . . . eight different departments . . . an ample number of faculty members to handle the subjects . . . yes, it's quite possible to have a wide variety of fields here . . . and a growing interest and development seems to be an objective for the future.

Buildings and equipment especially outstanding . . . Milner library . . . science labs . . . faculty advisers with background and up-to-date ideas . . . all help to make life easier for these "master minds."

Sometimes after teaching a year or two, the desire arises for more education . . . and a Master's degree is one of the answers that is highly plausible . . . the longing seems to grow out of the actual experiences encountered in teaching.

It's almost impossible to fail, it seems . . . each student works under the direction of an advisory committee . . . members of major department as chairman

Graduate Council: Standing—Dr. Lothrop, Dr. Lomkey, President Fairchild, Dr. Corrington, Dr. Houston, Dr. Hiatt, Professor Beyer.
Seated—Dr. Whitten, Dr. Losen, Miss Brennemon, Deon DeYoung, Miss Welch, Dr. Holmes.

Graduate Students: Pointer, Pymberly, Hostettler, and Botes observing what makes young minds tick in School Administration class.

GRADUATE STUDENTS

. . . an education and psychology representative . . . a third member appointed by chairman of the Graduate Council upon nomination by the other two members and the student . . . perhaps a little apple-polishing might help . . . and perhaps it might not.

Yes, it's good to be back home . . . that feeling of belonging once more . . . and now an extra glow of prestige as a graduate student . . . dear old ISNU still has the same atmosphere, the same ideals, and the same air of activity and resourcefulness . . . a closer contact between teacher and student than in the case of an undergraduate.

These students have an eye to the future . . . they will be one jump ahead of the four-year goal . . . perhaps one day all of ISNU will be taken over by seekers of five-year curricula . . . then they can look back and say "I was one of the first . . . everyone is following in my footsteps."

The first three full-time graduate students:
Isobelle Billings, LaSalle, Geog.; B.Ed., Illinois State Normal University.

Fronk Traeger, Bloomington, Soc. Sc.; B.A., Illinois Wesleyan University.

Charlotte Elizabeth Wilcox, Minonk, Biol. Sci.; B.Ed., Illinois State Normal University.

SENIOR CLASS

Seniors listen attentively as Dr. John W. Carrington explains procedures for registering with the Bureau of Appointments.

SENIOR CLASS

Redbirds in full plumage . . . class of '45 with philosophy, term papers, and U.S. history behind them . . . full speed ahead—taking only a minute or two to look back over a busy college career.

Having arrived bag and baggage in September, 1941 . . . dashing down to the Co-op Book Store to buy ISNU stickers for suit cases and laundry bags . . . Fell Hall inhabited by Frosh girls rather than by men in Navy blue . . . registration day . . . getting lost in Milner Library for the first time . . . acquiring at least two gray hairs in the hustle and bustle.

September, 1944 . . . time flies, as the sages say . . . seniors crowding into a few short months their favorite "last-time" events . . . making plans for a bang-up Homecoming season . . . watching Normal defeat Wesleyan on the hardwood . . . going to week-end movies . . . committee meetings over cokes at the Co-op . . . strolling across campus on spring days . . . storing up pleasantries to remember next year—and the year after that.

New experiences coming up during this final year . . . student teaching . . . worrying about lesson plans . . . putting into practice theory gleaned from education courses . . . sitting in on P.T.A. meetings . . . making out grade cards . . . assuming a very professional air . . . yes?

Leading the senior class . . . Helen Bundy Brown, president . . . Betty Bergstrom, vice-president . . . Marjorie Reeves, secretary-treasurer . . . with expert kibitzing by Dr. Leslie A. Holmes, sponsor of the class for the last two years.

Advisory board full of big ideas and knowing how to put them over . . . Betty Bremer, Erva Calhoon, Pat Cheseboro, Marilyn Coles, Pat Cullen, Alicejane Froland, Anna Gorman, Pat Moore, Mary Olson, Esther Otte, Jim Prange, Dorothy Ropers, Lorraine Sandeen, Dorothy Sherrard, Phyllis Smith, Kay Wheeler . . . their next-to-the-best accomplishment—downing chocolate sodas . . . their best accomplishment—seeing that the check gets placed in front of "Doc" Holmes.

First events of the year . . . watermelon feast for the freshmen on the campus green . . . Kiddie Party for members of the class . . . plenty of ice cream cones floating around the gym.

Plans for Skip Day . . . destination unknown . . . no classes for a whole day . . . just play games, relax and Eat with a capital "E."

Faculty take-off . . . a product of the Senior class . . . giving impressions of classroom profs after four years of close observation . . . an education in itself.

Routine duties of class officers . . . making plans for commencement . . . choosing announcements . . . taking orders . . . doing a million and one of the "little" jobs that must be done before the long-awaited day.

Four years . . . friendships made that will never be broken . . . promises made to meet again, soon . . . plans and dreams so close to realization . . . with sheepskin in hand, abdicating the coveted throne of "seniorship" to the class of '46.

JUNIOR CLASS

Sure enough! Here come the juniors of ISNU . . . they seem to have a distinctive air of now being upper-classmen . . . as yet they have not encountered the cares and dignified bearing of student teachers . . . but they are already beginning to think seriously of programs coming up . . . just next year, too . . . they prepare each lesson with an eye to the future . . . they're thinking of just what they may say to their students already.

Now they can rank with the seniors in belonging to honorary organizations . . . their background has widened considerably since September in 1942 when they first entered college . . . now they have the first privilege of taking courses marked "200" in the catalog . . . they also have more electives this year to choose from than before.

The class as a whole this year has not had much time to enjoy group procedures . . . the individual members have been too busy in their own small ways . . . they have a good share of the beauty as seen by the Homecoming queen Beverly Smith and her attendant Norma Schroeder, both representing the juniors . . . Marietta Harper will be remembered for her role in "Angel Street" . . . Robert Lindsey as class president has already made a name for himself on the campus . . . Emma Jane Thiebaud, a little brunette often found in the Home Economics laboratories, is vice-president . . . Grace Kinsey as secretary-treasurer completes the picture.

Mr. Howard Ivens has served his third year as sponsor of this group . . . got acquainted with them . . . or they with him . . . in Natural Science Survey . . . when they needed a faculty friend and adviser.

The third year of college seems to be a part of the business of transition from the feeling of being looked after and the idea that now one is on his own . . . where he goes from here is strictly up to the individual . . . life is looked upon from the standpoint of an adult . . . careers become of primary importance . . . a feeling that if education has gone thus far, nothing can surely stop it now . . . a little practical experience, and the world is before him.

Getting a bit of experience on the executive side are the members of the Advisory Board . . . Margaret Breen, Carolyn Harris, Martha Lewis, Lois Terpening, Edward Mitchell, Dorothy Foster, and Marietta Harper . . . these people stood by to see that all went well throughout the year and that the social as well as the educational machinery ran smoothly and well.

Just for fun, the annual junior-senior prom this year made participants forget the wear and tear of the world for just one night . . . in doing this, the purpose of the whole thing was successfully carried out.

Willing to take responsibility on strong young shoulders . . . anxious to find out just what this world is all about . . . finding out by degrees just the thing they are looking for . . . only one more year to go until careers are started in earnest . . . trying to preserve each moment for future memories and use . . . just a part of the junior class of 1944-45.

To the student teachers of tomorrow . . . to the teachers in the schools day after tomorrow . . . we see juniors in name but something bigger in reality . . . a part of the future world.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

Elected to leadership this year for the class of '47—Dr. Fielding, advisor; Edwards, president; Struck, secretary; Upton, vice-president.

The Sophomore Advisory Board smiles cheerfully as they complete plans for the Sophomore Cotillion.
Standing: Upton, Proud, King, Callery, Davis, Johnson, Miller, Rosenthal, Zimmer.
Seated: Benwoy, Novario, Jones, Hooker, Dr. Fielding, Struck, Naseef, Edwards.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

On entering their second year of college, the sophomores have always been told that their easiest year is coming up . . . but what with all those courses . . . History of Civ. with pages and pages of notes weekly . . . those appreciation courses . . . Hygiene . . . "Gen. Psych." . . . "Ed. Psych." . . . Fundamentals of Speech . . . it was not long before they knew they weren't going to school just for those social pleasures they should have.

But at least, they were no longer greenhorns . . . proved by their supervision of leaf-raking by the freshmen for the Homecoming bonfire . . . the campus a scene of hard work and relentless encouragement that resulted in aching backs and hoarse voices.

The Winter Festival was a gala affair . . . all planned and executed by these sophs . . . a great deal of time and thought was expended in the gym decorations.

The Sophomore Cotillion . . . everyone knows what that great event of the year was this time . . . Apprentice Seaman Robert Moeckel and Joyce Stephens chosen by their class-mates to reign as king and queen of the evening . . . Mendel Reilly furnished the music . . . the decorations showed the ingenuity of the committee headed by Vivian King . . . the publicity handled by Violet Rosenthal as chairman . . . the refreshment committee was headed by Norma Jean Davis . . . program chairman, Norma Jean Struck . . . too bad that Utopia couldn't last forever.

During the year . . . week-end parties . . . dances . . . games . . . week ends were lively for these second-year fun-lovers . . . college life agreed with them because they were agreeable with it.

They didn't know at the beginning of the year just how lucky they were to have Dr. Howard Fielding as their class sponsor . . . but before the term was half over, they decided they couldn't have done better . . . he had what it took . . . "but definitely."

Versatile Mary Etta Edwards was selected as president . . . with the help of Dorothy Upton as vice-president . . . and also the secretary-treasurer Norma Struck . . . this group helped bring a successful year to a pleasant ending.

Not only among their own classmates, however, are these people looked upon as being entirely worthy of having a say-so in school affairs . . . the advisory board which also made up the sophomore Student Council members . . . they also participated in many organizations on the campus . . . leaders in college life . . . that means they will be leaders in world affairs in the future.

However happy they were because they were not the extremes of the school . . . they were just a little bit aware of the fact that their college life was slipping away . . . just because next year they will be upper-classmen indeed.

Memories of friends, classes in the company of chattering groups of two year old friendships, planning and putting over a social function perhaps for the whole school's benefit . . . or perhaps just a cozy little party for their own class . . . these are the things the sophs will remember about their second year.

Also they will remember the coming back to a dear and familiar place . . . the campus a second home now . . . this year they didn't care so much if they had to stay at ISNU for a week end . . . at least, they knew how to get around. . . . It was a pretty good world, after all.

FRESHMAN CLASS

Dr. Richard G. Browne plays host to the Freshman advisory board in his own home.

Starting off the class of '48 in its career at ISNU, this group of policy-formers are:

Second row—Veile, Kruse, Kemken, Fillinghom, B. J. Lawrence.

First row—Kinnemon, Armstrong, Johnson, Hedstrom.

College Day guests enjoying lunch on a campus soon to be familiar to them as incoming Freshmen.

FRESHMAN CLASS

Freshman week . . . new faces . . . new buildings . . . new school books . . . new school songs . . . new teachers, friendly and welcoming. Dances, teas, receptions, parties, V-12 uniforms. What a lot of classrooms in Old Main . . . almost need campus sisters to show the way around . . . such a whirl of excitement . . . college must not be so difficult after all.

Another side of the picture . . . entrance examinations . . . there never was a day as long as registration day . . . "Guides to Study" . . . books to get at the Co-op Book Store . . . "rules and regulations" explained in Assembly . . . physical examinations in Cook Hall . . . endless lists of books and assignments. Well, it sounds complicated, after all.

Freshmen now in full swing . . . movies every week-end in Capen . . . library courses downstairs in Milner . . . large gym classes making use of recreational facilities . . . English 110 and 111 classes . . . small compact groups of girls at Four Corners exchanging experiences . . . letters home of such a nature that back comes the reply "Pay more heed to your lessons" . . . Oh, well, all work and no play will never do even for Freshmen.

Notices on bulletin board "All Freshmen Welcome" . . . those upperclassmen can certainly think of clever initiations! . . . these clubs in college are educational as well as a lot of fun . . . a fine opportunity to mix with students and faculty in committee participation.

These 1944-1945 freshmen have done their fair share of work, too . . . what with raking leaves for the Homecoming bonfire . . . hard work made harder by the sophomores . . . rather disappointing outcome, also . . . the decorations in the McCormick Gym for the dance were done by these newest additions to the student body . . . Freshmen were well represented in the cast of "Janie," the Homecoming play.

They also came in for their fair share of play . . . using their own initiative to plan and carry out an original Fall Festival in the Gym . . . here, too, they displayed their talent for decorating . . . other parties were given to brighten dull week-ends. It's not for this class to be "Suitcase Freshmen."

As newcomers, most freshmen are considered "green" . . . somehow, this particular group seemed to escape that category . . . they entered their new life with wide-open eyes for the future . . . professionally, they are aspiring toward the best . . . socially, they are really "clickin'" . . . looked at with sincere respect by their school-mates and faculty members.

And the year has certainly been worth the effort to make it successful . . . getting "well-orientated" was not an easy job. Dr. Richard G. Browne ("Con-Civ" teacher to you) smoothed the way as class sponsor. The class elected Martin Stephenson as their president, but when he joined the Navy, Janis Armstrong, vice-president, took over his duties, with Joyce Freed assisting as class treasurer.

There were some additions between semesters . . . making up for the few that dropped along the way-side . . . welcome additions to those already here.

Yes, indeed . . . the cream of the high-school crop, no doubt . . . with the start they have made, some day they may be the cream of the teaching profession. Next year's sophomores are already looking forward to a year of further work and play on the campus of ISNU.

NAVY V-12 UNIT

With nearly three hundred Bluejackets . . . the United States Navy came aboard on this campus July 1943 . . . for training in the V-12 program . . . many men direct from combat duty . . . others from colleges and universities in all parts of the United States . . . still others directly from high schools.

For two years the Navy has utilized the facilities of the University . . . regular faculty members are their instructors . . . trainees earn academic credit toward their civilian professional careers . . . will be commissioned as ensigns upon completion of subsequent midshipmen training.

Depending on previous training the sailors' courses include . . . advanced mathematics, physics, chemistry, psychology, engineering drawing and descriptive geometry, navigation, English, naval organization, naval history and strategy, military drill, physical training . . .

emphasis on conditioning, swimming, and lifesaving.

The Commanding Officer of the unit is Lieutenant Meldrim F. Burrill . . . "The Captain" opened the unit after coming from the United States Naval Reserve Midshipmen's school at Columbia university . . . born in Maine, but claims California as his home state.

Lieutenant Eugene W. Bowman, Executive Officer, from the state of Washington, was previously stationed in Arizona and in New York . . . from position of captain of a P.T. Boat during the Normandy invasion, Lieutenant James Doherty came aboard as executive officer.

The Medical Officers . . . Lieutenant (j.g.) Merrill W. Rusher came to the unit from St. Albans Hospital, New York . . . Lieutenant Louis A. Balcke, whose home is Pekin, Illinois, came aboard after completing a tour of duty in the Southwest Pacific.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Student Council choosing a spunky red-head this year to officiate in its extensive activities on campus . . . President Jane Caviezel . . . supported by . . . Dorothy Marsh, vice-president . . . Marian Rouse, secretary-treasurer . . . Dr. R. U. Gooding, sponsor.

The first and heaviest Council duty of the year . . . working with the Homecoming committee for the annual celebration, organizing of numerous groups to plan the pep sessions . . . building the customary bonfire . . . operating the alumni registration booth . . . selecting an orchestra for the dance. Council members using all of their ingenuity and energy when the tragic-stricken eyes of spectators viewed the towering blaze of the bonfire two hours before the pep session . . . recruiting students who in a short time gathered enough rubble for a second bonfire.

Abolishing the University Social Center this year . . . and restoring the Student Lounge.

Three students from each class elected for Council duties each year, and at the end of the year one member from each class held over for the coming term by the vote of the council members. Ex-officio members, Vidette editor Gale Brown . . . Index editor Dottie McKee. Holding Council membership . . . Seniors—Marilyn Coles, Pat Cullen, Jim Prange, Marge Yepsen . . . Juniors—Margaret A. Stipp, Beverly Smith, Robert Lindsey, Marian Rouse . . . Sophomores—Pauline Novaria, Virginia Olsen, Martha Lou Alverson, Vivian King . . . Freshmen—Connie Goudreau, Georgia Grossart, Barbara Bienemann, David Dee . . . Navy representatives who change every semester.

Other responsibilities of the Council . . . all-school elections, up-keep of the Student Lounge, checking of attendance at assembly, and honoring the teams at mass meetings, serving as representatives on the War Activities Board, Entertainment Board, Forensic Board, Social Life and Organizations Board. Getting things done in a democratic way . . . many of its accomplishments unknown to a large portion of the student body.

First row, presiding, Caviezel, Coles, Lindsey, King, Goudreau, Grossart, Brown.

Third Row: Bailey, Frohnd, Stipp, B. Smith, Harris, Hansleben, Moore.
Second Row: Reeves, Brown, Kessinger, Dean Keaton, Breen.
First Row: Donnell, Talbot, Edwards.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE

Just one big happy family . . . all the women in school belong to Women's League . . . from the very beginning of the year the voices of this group are heard almost constantly . . . especially from the three main boards . . . House Presidents', Executive, and Central Board.

As counsellors and guides they met the freshman girls and showed them their first taste of college life . . . a Campus Sister tea . . . a wiener roast on the south campus. . . . Cooperating with the University Club, they gave an all-school complimentary dance. . . . A style show was also given as a pointer on what to wear and where to wear it for the benefit of the freshmen girls . . . lucky freshies. . . . They were well taken care of just when they needed it most.

At Homecoming . . . a breakfast . . . former Dean O. Lillian Barton as speaker of the morning. And Thanksgiving . . . a canteen in the Student Lounge for the unlucky guys and gals who couldn't go home . . . a matinee dance, with refreshments and games . . . what's the use of spending a holiday at home when it's so much fun to stay and be entertained right in school?

Here's really something, though . . . the WL winter formal known as "Ali Babi's Ball" . . . Toby Davidson furnishing the music . . . the Gym transformed into an Oriental atmosphere of mystery and delight.

When Christmas hung in the air . . . a tea with guests bringing gifts for homes where otherwise no presents would be found . . . a tree in the Dean of Women's office . . . loaded with gifts for children from various school organizations . . . Yuletide meditations in Capen during the noon hour, solemn and inspiring . . . it seems that one of the objectives of the club is to make the holidays more pleasant.

Immediately after all the girls came back from their vacations at home, they started again with a "Week-end Whirl" with Larry Lonny this time chosen as music-maker . . . this dance was a "mixer" with the University Club . . . "Cooperation" also one of their bywords.

In February an Honor Council tea was given for all women . . . for the student counsellors and their counselees as special guests.

Good news for women . . . a chance for them to shine during Women's Week . . . not that every week isn't women's week, anyway, but this one was extra-special . . . a special issue of the Vidette . . . a special issue of the Co-ed, the so-called "Voice of Women's League" . . . an Assembly program of the "Why and Wherefore of Women's League" . . . a true-to-life skit of typical ISNU co-eds . . . another tea in the Student Lounge . . . officers also elected for the following year.

War work, too, is seen among the activities of these women . . . a Red Cross benefit . . . then, for fun, a carnival with all organizations in school helping . . . dancing, games, refreshments . . . all planned by the Central Board.

Installation banquet . . . started the new officers with a "well-begun-is-half-done" idea . . . the much-talked-about affair, the annual spring formal . . . further reason for the ISNU students to be proud of its feminine ingenuity.

Gale Brown, who was vice-president, assumed the position of president when Mary Ellen Kessinger left school. Margaret Breen, secretary, moved into the vice-presidency. Alice Jane Froland, social chairman with Margaret Ann Stipp as her assistant . . . publicity, under Mary Donnell . . . program, Marjorie Johnson . . . Beverly Smith, chairman of Central Board . . . finance, Carolyn Harris . . . Co-editors of the Co-ed, Jane Hansleben and Marietta Edwards . . . Billie Herrick and Patricia Moore, heads of counselling.

Dean Anna L. Keaton, sponsor, with her radiant personality, guides and coaxes her pet organization into yearly channels of success. The main purpose of the League is to establish better relationships, both social and professional, among all women on the campus.

Women students and faculty members enjoy the informal Honor Council Tea on Women's Day.

Members of the House Presidents Board meet in Copen to discuss problems. Board is composed of the heads of all the organized houses; Beverly Smith, Chairman.

UNIVERSITY CLUB

The Parents' Day Service in Capen, Sunday afternoon, May 6 . . . James Zimmerman and his committee made the plans . . . a reception followed in the Home Ec rooms . . . co-sponsors of the week end dedicated to parents of ISNU students were the U Club and Women's League.

Officers and committee chairmen make up the executive council . . . Jim Prange, president . . . Ramon Hanson, vice-president and publicity director . . . August Lorenzini, secretary . . . Melvin Smith and Eldon Maxwell, treasurer, first and second semesters . . . program, Martin Stephenson . . . and the chairmen already named.

COLLEGE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

For all those interested in voting and how it's done . . . College League of Women Voters . . . just anyone is eligible to join . . . no dues . . . no special requirements . . . just a friendly group of students with a definite goal in mind . . . that of being more informed in public affairs.

Outstanding fall activity . . . straw election vote in November to show which way the wind blew in regard to the pending presidential election . . . Virginia Renois acted as special chairman for this undertaking.

The second election this organization sponsored was the Women's League election of officers . . . Della Talbot was general chairman . . . Sponsor Miss Fern M. Melrose advised all activities during the year.

The scheduled meetings . . . twice a month . . . Thursdays at four o'clock . . . this group is the citizenship committee of Women's League . . . it really must be important to rate a separate set-up.

An annual Welcome Tea . . . talks by Mrs. Florence Fifer Bohrer, state president of League of Women Voters

. . . also by Dean Anna L. Keaton, Dr. Lucy L. Tasher, and Professor Floyd Goodier.

A visit to the five charitable homes for child care in Bloomington and Normal . . . greater appreciation for organizations of this kind . . . a radio program under Dr. Nell Waldron, former sponsor.

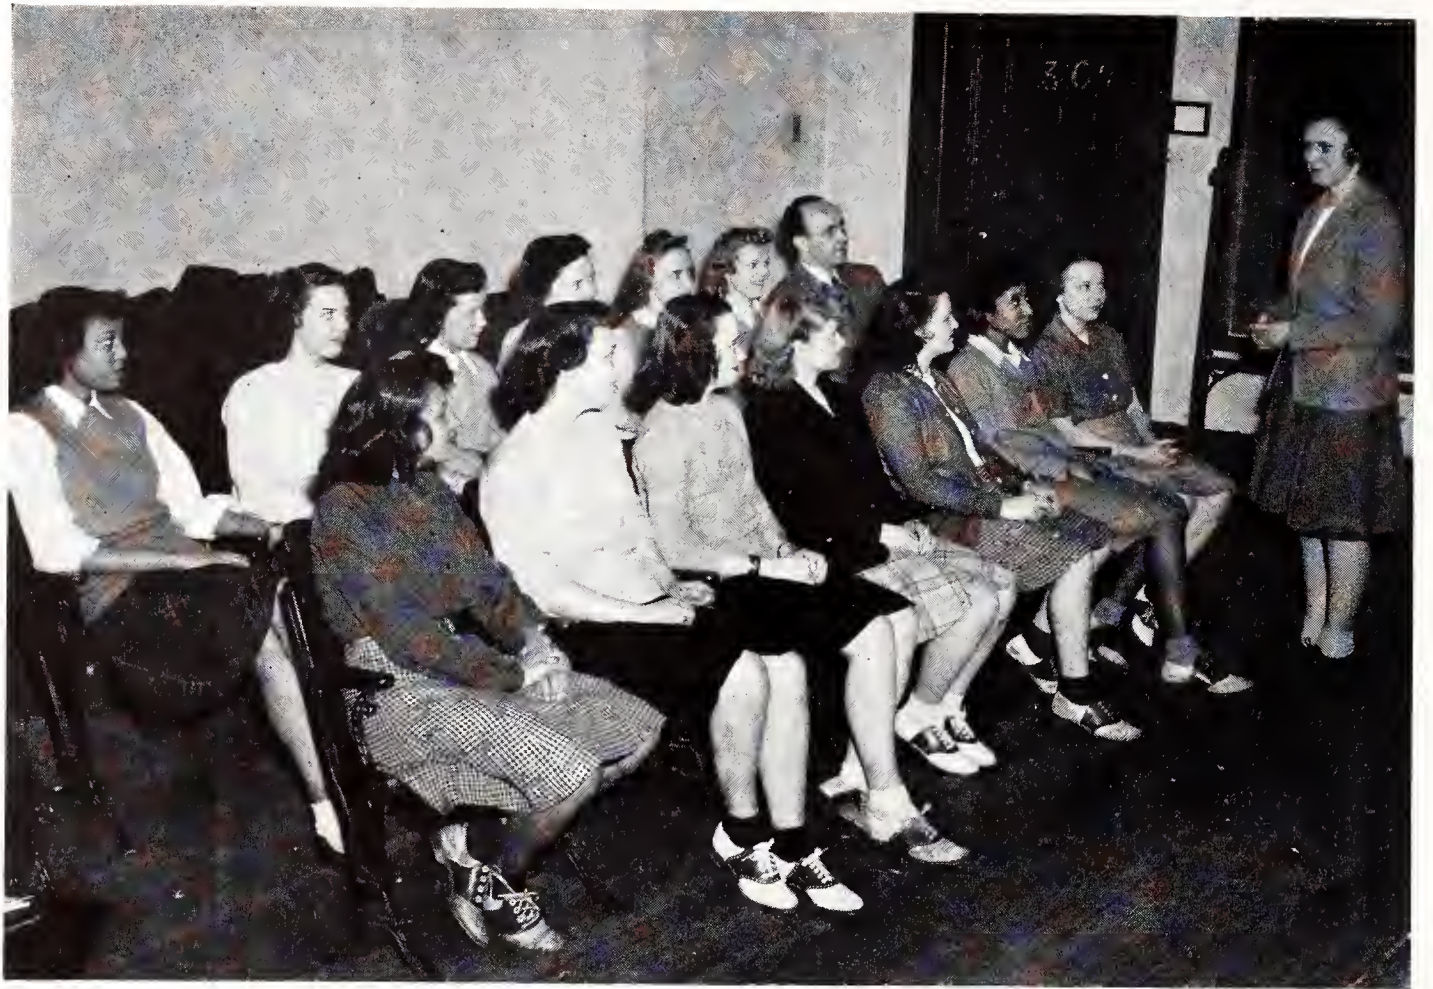

Also a day spent in Springfield to see the legislature in action . . . one of the most unusual of the activities . . . discussion at the next meeting.

In May . . . annual Citizenship Recognition Day Assembly program . . . brought home to all listeners their part in a democracy as citizens.

The last meeting . . . pleasure only . . . a picnic "far from the maddening crowd" . . . another year of being a member of the College League of Women Voters gone.

Della Talbot served her term as president . . . Feona Keitzman, vice-president . . . Virginia Renois, secretary-treasurer . . . Helen Jones, program chairman.

THE INDEX

Editor-in-Chief Dorothy McKee, determined to make the '45 book the best ever, seeks suggestions from annuals of other years and other schools.

"Hold that position and smile," says Staff Photographer Charles Krosse, A.S.

On Mondays from four to six . . . and at all other times . . . Clicking typewriters, swish of the paper cutter, rustling of copy, sliding of file drawers, . . . yes, sir, that's the INDEX staff working away on the 1944-45 book . . . let's take a peek.

Desks piled high with "necessary" equipment . . . stacks of notes, "Call the Camera Craft!" "Did we hear from the engravers today?" . . . boxes marked "Final Copy" . . . drawers sadly lacking pencils and erasers . . . bookcases of yearbooks from colleges all over the U.S.A. . . . cobwebs spun by rubber cement as the panels of class pictures are pasted . . . big, deep wastepaper baskets that come in handy . . . an air of efficiency amid the confusion.

Dottie McKee, Editor-in-Chief . . . talented artist with executive ability . . . plenty of long hours . . . signing contracts . . . deciding on cover designs . . . planning the "dummy" . . . no, not a bridge game this time . . . vivid imagination to see how everything will look when it's in print . . . numbering and renumbering pages, those corners are almost worn through . . . choosing pictures, arranging cuts . . . the editor's work is never done.

Flashbulbs . . . "Smile, please" . . . meet Chuck Krosse, V-12er from Peoria, staff photographer . . . catching Old Castle covered with the first snow of the season . . . snapping typical campus activities, refreshments thrown in now and then . . . nothing short of flag pole sitting to get the right angle . . . hibernating in the dark room . . . rounding up subjects for a group picture . . . a hobby that pays.

Guardian of the postage and stationery, private mail-carrier for the INDEX office, keeper of the files which contain the "brains" of the business . . . have a question? . . . just ask Isabelle Simpson, business manager, who, with Miss Margaret Peters, business faculty adviser, is holder of the purse strings . . . the all-round right-hand man.

Harmony . . . color . . . silk-screening . . . printing for division pages . . . planning organization pictures . . . next we come to the Art Staff, Barbara Kraft, editor . . . her helpers, Dottie Sherrard, Esther Miller, Chuck Schridde . . . Mrs. Mary Parker, faculty art adviser, more ideas that you can count . . . special help from Mr. Preston Ensign, ISNU's business manager, on the silk screening process . . . new feature in the '45 INDEX, done by hand, slipped into each book individually.

Words, words, words . . . what a new thesaurus wouldn't do for us . . . Pat Moore, associate editor, working with the literary staff . . . compiling senior questionnaires, "Gee, these senior girls change their names awfully fast!" . . . counting picas . . . figuring words per square inch, a workout in algebra . . . a maze of commas, dots . . . checking and rechecking for correct information . . . reading last minute copy . . . deadlines won't wait!

Hard-working staff . . . Martha Lewis, organizing and assigning beats, working out picture schedules . . . covering the news . . . staff reporters with a review of the year . . . Doris "Frenchy" Tillmann, Hope Price, Allegra Gulon . . . gathering information about campus "who's who" and "what's what" . . . trying to visualize a Spring Banquet in December . . . Miss Esther Vinson, literary expert and inspiration to the writers . . . reading copy . . . thinking of the right word . . . knows the book from cover to cover.

Working on Saturdays . . . hurried-up lunch, hamburgers "with everything" . . . cutting pictures to size . . . trimming panels with razor blades—steady nerves . . . miles of proof to read . . . book nears completion . . . time to index the INDEX . . . no, not double talk, turn to the back of the book for evidence . . . finishing colored division pages . . . hold your breath, here comes the first INDEX of 1945.

Off-the-Record night life—A party at the Home Management House as guests of Associate Editor Pat Maare takes the staff away from work for an evening.

Business Manager Isabelle Simpson confers with Adviser Miss Margaret Peters.

VIDETTE

Editor-in-chief, Gale Brown

Features, editorials, news copy, columns, letters to the editor . . . by-lines . . . seventeen women reporters . . . beats . . . the "ankle express" to news sources . . . "Now this is strictly off the record, but—" . . . rewriting . . . "Typists, please keep covers on typewriters!" . . . final copy . . . the journalist's commandments, the Style Sheet.

Monday morning, 8 o'clock, Journalism 165 . . . deadline (or dead duck) at noon . . . "Where's the copy?" . . . Wednesday's assembly speech two days ahead of delivery . . . interviewing celebrities . . . "Don't ever call a program interesting! Make it sound that way." (Who said this?) . . . Eleventh-hour copy.

Column "inches" . . . scrap books . . . radio program, "Associated Press in Wartime." . . . "Weedette, Peerade Wrextry," seventh place in the Homecoming parade—after all that trouble . . . 8-page Christmas issue.

The inquiring reporter . . . Gym Gabs by Peg Marshall . . . Random's Harvest . . . Hopewell's Hallucinations . . . Mickey Speaks . . . Al's Alibis . . . Scuttlebutt from the Crow's Nest . . . Dashes with Dot . . . Advertisements repeating "Say It with Flowers" . . . "Our Delicious Donuts Are a Prize" . . . "Buy an Extra War Bond Today" . . . movies at the Normal Theater . . . "Courtesy of The Daily Pantagraph."

With the guidance, blue pencil corrections, and ego-puncturing comments of Miss Esther Vinson, sponsor, and the efficient leadership of Gale Brown, editor-in-chief, who, with her past experience as a cub reporter, advertising solicitor, and make-up assistant, and her later work last summer as managing editor and editor-in-chief, the campus news begins its journey to the printed page by way of the journalist's jaunt.

Other veterans on the staff . . . Margaret Ann Stipp, who has spent many hours in the ol' Vidette office as proof reader, make-up editor, and now as managing editor; Eloise Holzhauer, news editor and copy reader; Isabelle Simpson, chief in the advertising department, and Marian Rouse, business manager. Then there are Apprentice Seamen John Hanna and George Collins of Scuttlebutt fame and sports editors, Al Rainey and Erving Wolfe.

This make-up crew reads proof and cuts galleys on Monday evening, counts in "heads," searches furiously but hopefully for the last half inch of "filler," and eventually the dummy is ready for the printer.

Next, "pulling page proof" to remove all "printer's pi" just before the paper is "put to bed." . . . Distribution Wednesday noon after assembly . . . the super-critical faculty scrutinizing the innocent-looking mass of black on white for a missing apostrophe or the fatal use of the objective case when the subjective case is correct (or is it?) . . . the general dash of salt mixed in to give additional flavor to the journalist's potpourri.

Thus, preparing a current biography of campus life in the form of a 4-page weekly newspaper "dedicated to the interest of university students" is the assignment fulfilled by the Vidette staff.

Women march off in war time, not to war, but down the Normal football field—the Women's Marching Band, said to be the first musical organization of its kind in a co-educational college.

Realizing that Homecoming would not be complete without a marching band for the parade and other activities, Professor Wayne F. Sherrard, director of bands, decided a women's marching band would be the one and only answer to the male scarcity problem.

On the afternoon of October 21, headed by Patricia Chesebro, drum major, a line of six slide trombones, and with eight drums beating the tempo, the all-girl ISNU marching band entered the football field in their first formal presentation.

WOMEN'S PHYSICAL EDUCATION CLUB

Ah, sweet mystery of life . . . when youth is exuberant . . . long treks through forest and field . . . fresh air calisthenics . . . modern dancing . . . contact of bat and ball . . . countless hours on the tennis courts. . . . To members of the Physical Education Club these activities bring a sparkle to the eye . . . memories of sporting good times.

Nothing like a rousing game of badminton or ping-pong to quicken the hand and the wit . . . or the healthy satisfaction that comes from a fast-moving game of basketball or volley ball . . . the Physical Education Club, composed of majors and minors in the field emphasizes and stimulates interest in women's sports.

The first session of the year . . . a party for entering freshmen to orientate them to the club . . . introductions, parlor games, and refreshments. . . . In October . . . members assisting at the Physical Education State Conference held at ISNU. . . . The Christmas party in December . . . a huge success to promote merriment and festivity for the Victory Hall boys . . . exchanging of presents . . . singing of Christmas carols by the boys for the benefit of the members of the club.

Sophomores in charge of the January meeting . . . a skit representing various types of recreation in foreign countries and Red Cross methods in army camps . . . reading a letter received from Miss Winifred Bally, former physical education instructor at ISNU, now in the Persian Gulf Command with the Red Cross. . . . In February . . . a panel discussion with Christine Smith as chairman . . . the topic, "Good Grooming for College Girls."

Wasting no time when it comes to "enthusiastic entertainment" . . . the alumni-student hockey game at Homecoming . . . the Homecoming luncheon for members of Orchesis, W.R.A., and Physical Education Club.

Monthly programs by groups of members according to their class status . . . the annual spring breakfast for out-going seniors . . . recognition of newly installed officers.

President Saralee Storts leading activities this year . . . with the help of vice-president Ellen Dawson . . . treasurer Peggy Marshall . . . secretary Marcia Garihee . . . and sponsor Miss Bernice Frey.

Purposes of the club . . . to further interest in Physical Education and to provide a certain type of leadership for majors and minors of Physical Education . . . the chairmanship of committees, general work on committees, club program planning . . . all fulfilled to the letter during this year as one flashes back over its activities.

Third row: Peffermon, Coles, Lorson, Porsons, Shipman, Bennett, Sparks, Hinz, Costonza, Shingel, C. Smith.

W. R. A.

Swinging a hockey stick . . . serving a tennis ball . . . making a free throw . . . these are some of the activities that are included in Women's Recreational Association's program . . . a versatile organization having not only a business meeting but a social hour afterwards . . . In the fall and spring a weekend of "roughing it" to teach the girls the fine art of "self-preservation" . . . developing a taste for the wide open spaces, along with rosy cheeks.

The executive committee this year . . . president, Kay Wheeler . . . vice-president, Pat Cullen . . . treasurer, Sherma Dabney . . . secretary, Esther Morris . . . and sponsor, Dr. Esther French.

For entertainment . . . sponsoring a style show of appropriate sports clothes . . . holding intramurals annually for basketball, volley ball and hockey . . . emerging victoriously from both of their hockey contests held this year with Wesleyan . . . placing first in the Homecoming parade . . . planning intercurricular playdays on certain Saturdays of the year . . . or taking over the gym and furnishing card tables and games for anyone in need of amusement on Friday nights.

Women's Recreational Association . . . an essential part of campus life, especially in these days when health both of mind and of body cannot be stressed enough!

Flashy red sweaters . . . showing off big white "N's" . . . the battle badges of ISNU worn by her top-notch athletes.

Navy blues intermingling with the red and white of the sweater-men . . . all experts in football, basketball, wrestling, track and field, tennis, baseball or golf . . . working together for an ISNU victory.

Prexy Don Pinder . . . handling the gavel as expertly as he does his baseball bat . . . planning big things for the men on "N" club to do . . . Glenn Gilbertson, vice-president, also known for his ability on the diamond . . . secretary-treasurer, Bob Jones, winning his niche in the club via the football field . . . hardy Coach Howard Hancock sponsoring this gang of varsity lettermen.

Not all of the activities of the club running along athletic lines . . . handling concessions at the Homecoming game—peanuts, popcorn and cokes—what would the fans do without them?

Staging the election of the Homecoming queen . . . finding the coach for "her highness and court" to parade in—quite a task these days . . . crowning the queen by President Pinder . . . all in the line of duty.

Next on the social calendar . . . Goodwill Dance on November 11 after the Normal-Wesleyan game . . . dancing in the McCormick gym to the music of Freddie Sell . . . a tribute to good sportsmanship.

Getting back to business . . . big job of hosting the McLean County High School Basketball Tournament . . . working and worrying to make it a success . . . it takes a lot of hard work to be worthy of an "N" sweater.

Fraley, assistant professor of biology on leave, now a Red Cross director in England.

GAMMA THETA UPSILON

Information such as this helped the members keep up with the times . . . kept them on the road to their objectives . . . for instance, local and world-wide points of interest were both covered during the year . . . making possible a gleam of recognition when a radio announcer mentions an odd name in war-time maneuvers . . . perhaps even a few weather predictions that turn out to be ultimately correct (accidentally or otherwise).

They keep their former members "in the know" by compiling and mailing copies of the Gamma Theta Upsilon News-Letter to alumni in service. Credit for this goes to the committee composed of Eleanor Anderson, chairman, and her crew of Shirley Shipley, Leland Coffman, Isabel Billings, Marian Rouse, Laura Kaario, and James Prange.

Weather . . . stars . . . climate . . . population . . . government . . . industry . . . occupations . . . natural resources . . . will this list never end? Someone should know about all these things.

Also they can be seen in many queer places . . . squinting at the weather vane on North Hall . . . reading barometers . . . concentrating on maps by the hour . . . drawing them to suit themselves afterwards, perhaps.

The club selected Shirley Shipley as president . . . Laura Kaario, vice-president . . . Jean Sunderland, secretary . . . Marian Rouse, treasurer . . . these were helped out by program chairmen Ruth Pence and Paul Curry . . . publicity chairmen, Marjorie Davis and Eleanor Anderson.

"We're the only University club which has increased its membership three hundred per cent since school opened" . . . commented Miss Elinor B. Flagg, sponsor of Illinois Alpha chapter of the national honorary mathematics fraternity . . . Homecoming breakfast at the Methodist Church . . . Miss Edith I. Atkin, retired sponsor of KME, talked about "Dear Old Golden Rule Days."

Dr. Holmes, Weldon, Mr. Barber, Browne, Dr. Sorrenson

PI KAPPA DELTA

The fostering of campus forensic activities . . . the second annual schoolwide discussion contest on the topic "Should the United States adopt a system of universal military training upon expiration of the Selective Service Act?" . . . participating in the finals—Dorothy Ann Allen, Iris Catherine Bates, Marian Dean, Janice Ellingsworth, Doris Tinette, and Connie Thomasen.

The fall "get-acquainted" reception in the Student Lounge in collaboration with the Forensic Board . . . the Homecoming dinner shared with Pi Gamma Mu . . . two alumni members in service, James Depew, captain in the Marines, and Robert Turner, Army Air force captain, guests of the fraternity . . . The annual Province Convention, this year held at Augustana College in April.

Officers of the honorary fraternity are two of the most active speakers on campus . . . Patricia Weldon, president, and Rosemary Brown, secretary-treasurer . . . also, A/S Edward Carson, vice-president, until his transfer in March.

1946—the National Convention year . . . looking forward, onward to the possibility of meeting once again fellow speakers when the man of war is replaced by the greater man of eloquence, oratory . . . the perfection of the living voice. Or in Emerson's words . . .

What boots it thy pleasure?
What profit thy parts?
If one thing thou lackest,
The art of all arts?

The only credentials,
Passport to success,
Opens castle and parlor,—
Address, man, address.

"Service, Loyalty, and Progress" . . . goals of these business-like students of Pi Omega Pi . . . this motto was given them in 1928 . . . it is still as effective now as it was seventeen years ago.

The members of the Business Education curriculum . . . those that really know their p's and q's in shorthand as well as typing and bookkeeping . . . those are the ones that are qualified on an honorary basis to make up this group.

Events of 1944-45 . . . Homecoming breakfast at Hotel Rogers in Bloomington with a large number of alumni attending . . . new initiates already coming into the picture.

In December a Christmassy get-together at Miss Margaret Peters' home . . . Christmas games . . . musical recordings . . . eats. Next Prof. Harry Admire entertaining in his home . . . music by the host and hostess . . . Dr. Harold Koepke on the program in February.

Miss Mary Webb, Miss Olivia Hansen, sponsor, and Miss Alta Day also take their turns at entertaining.

With Mary Ellen Winings as president . . . Donna Jo Hunt as vice-president . . . Ethel Galvin as secretary-treasurer . . . meetings upheld objectives . . . enrichment and training for future business education teachers.

PI OMEGA PI

SIGMA TAU DELTA

If spectacles seem to be prevalent for members of Sigma Tau Delta, national honorary English fraternity, add it up to the burning of midnight oil over Shakespeare or the polishing of their own verses in the cold gray dawn.

The September meeting . . . a review of summer reading by these lovers of the belles lettres . . . Alumni and neophytes together with actives at the Homecoming breakfast.

Led by Marilyn Theis, S.T.D. carolers (with Navy bass) singing for their supper at faculty homes, then stopping at the sponsor's for the Christmas meeting under direction of Lorraine Sandeen and Maxine Miller, who read "holiday poetry" from different countries.

A discussion of "Religion in the Modern Novel" by Dr. Stella Henderson at the home of Mrs. Laura H. Pricer . . . Shakespeare's birthday party at the home of Dr. Hiett . . . and the trip "en masse" to Chicago for the matinee of Othello, featuring Paul Robeson.

Poems by Vernice Garner and Maxine Miller published in the Winter number of the Rectangle, national fraternity magazine . . . these and others contributing to the literary columns of the Vidette.

LOWELL MASON CLUB

"What shall we do with these initiates?" . . . "Make 'em carry a sack of gum and candy around to feed to us music upperclassmen." . . . "Have 'em bring an egg like we did and get the signatures of Miss Knudson and all the other faculty members on it. We'll fix 'em!"

So the informal initiation . . . and then the impressive formal ceremonies in a fern-banked setting with candlelight and soft organ music . . . taking the oath to carry on the work begun by the memorable pioneer, Lowell Mason, the "Father of public school music."

Musically and actively effervescent throughout the year . . . the wiener roast out at the University Farm in the smoky fall and with the first turn of spring, the "baked bean and potato salad" picnic, the enjoyment and goodwill of Christmas caroling, monthly meetings in the Ol' Castle, the numerous Stunt Show rehearsals.

In post-war years, the fun of once more decorating the Lowell Mason Homecoming float, the excitement and reunion with "That ol' pal of mine" at the reception in the music office . . . the first-rate minstrel shows for assembly programs . . . traditional and memorable experiences for 1944 initiates to share with future pledges.

Busy with this year's program . . . Miss Margaret Westhoff, sponsor; Patricia Chesebro, president; Marjorie Reeves, secretary; Sarah Neil, treasurer; Shirley Mader, program chairman, and Marilyn Holley, publicity chairman.

Thus, the do-re-mi-ers close the roll call on another successful year, the 22nd since its organization in 1923.

First row: Morris, Morsh, Sandeen, E. Horn, Brown, Johnson.*

Deep, dark secrets were seen to be going on . . . at least they were secrets for awhile . . . until it all came out into the open in the form of a play or program . . . for the Jesters are constantly doing that sort of thing.

This was one of the hardest working organizations in school . . . the members have the reputation of being a part of the most talented performers of ISNU.

Their one big project was the production of the play "Angel Street" . . . a man slowly driving his wife insane . . . strange footsteps in an empty house . . . flickering gas-lights . . . a creeping premonition . . . at last, the cause of all the trouble discovered . . . the wife convinced that her seeming madness was in her own mind . . . it was a thrilling play in three acts.

The cast . . . Marietta Harper as Mrs. Manningham . . . August Lorenzini as Inspector Rough, Sam Smith of the V-12 as Mr. Manningham, Dorothy Marsh and Mary Etta Edwards as the two different types of servant . . . all these Jesters played each part well . . . Alvera Beatty was the student director helping Miss Mabel Clare Allen.

But that wasn't all . . . an Assembly program all to themselves was given . . . they entered the Stunt Show . . . the Carnival . . . "dependable" is the word for this group.

Besides all this, the regular monthly meetings were well planned by program chairman Marjorie Johnson.

Milner library was a favorite meeting place . . . in the Carnegie room they listened to records of poetry reading . . . another time Miss Welch showed famous books and told what they were all about . . . they learned about almost everything!

The members jaunted to the Bloomington Consistory, where they poked into back-stage equipment . . . found out about lights and other props.

Lorraine Sandeen took the center of the stage as president . . . Marjorie Johnson was vice-president . . . secretary, Lois Terpening . . . and Alvera Beatty was treasurer.

Yes, it was a busy year . . . Dr. Fred A. Sorrenson as faculty sponsor held the activities of the club to its objectives . . . back-stage and on-stage participation.

"Do you know what your personality looks like?" . . . initiates of Palette club painted their personalities on palettes hung about their necks on initiation day . . . each pledge was in turn blindfolded, after the wiener roast at Fell Park, to add his part to the landscape sketched by firelight . . . the evening's surprise came when Dr. Louis Hoover sketched a self-portrait in thirty seconds.

Alumni, members of the art department, art students, and friends were invited . . . decorations were autumn leaves with a miniature easel centering the table . . . hand-painted napkins on which leaves were stencilled . . . cookies and punch . . . the traditional "Dessert Rendezvous" for Homecoming weekend.

"For goodness' sake! Is my neck really that long!" . . . among the many startling discoveries when members sketched each other at their November meeting . . . Christmas favors made in December for the Red Cross to distribute for use on servicemen's trays in hospitals

. . . standing Christmas trees, stencilled napkins, nut cups and placecards . . . members of the club sang carols while they cut these things out of colored paper.

"Did you realize that even vases should suit the season of the year?" . . . Miss Esther Robinson showed colored slides of flower arrangements from April's tulips to December's poinsettias.

Dr. Hoover was speaker in March . . . after the meeting, a surprise party in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Hoover . . . an improvised theater and stage with a projection screen . . . members sketched take-offs on faculty people and other club members for projection.

May Robertson handled the gavel as club president . . . programs were arranged by Barbara Kraft, vice-president . . . "minutes of the last meeting, please, Esther Otte" . . . Guinevere Long collected dues and managed the finances . . . the efforts of the whole club were sponsored by Dr. Gladys Bartle . . . Janet Blundell publicized activities.

Some use music as an outlet for emotional expression . . . some use the pen or brush . . . others find that creative satisfaction in the flowing movement of the dance . . . For variation this year . . . the dancers working out compositions to the rhythms of poetry instead of music.

The campus chapter of the national organization of Orchesis . . . meeting every Monday night in McCormick gymnasium to promote an interest in modern dance . . . The members weaving stories into their dances based upon musical composition . . . A girl with an interest in dancing, joining the group known as Junior Orchesis . . . attending eight meetings and presenting an original dance interpretation in the spring, enabling her to become a full-fledged Senior member.

Any program chairman in need of material . . . counting on an appreciative audience when members of Orchesis are listed on the program . . . Miss Dunklin performing the "Dance of the Gypsies" at the Homecoming Canteen . . . also presenting a colorful number portraying the Arabian Nights' heroine, "Scheherazade," on the program of the "Ali Baba" Women's League formal . . . Jean Rains and Mary Dunklin giving the "Kris Kringle Frolics" number at the Women's Recreational Association's Christmas party.

Mary Dunklin in the role of president this year with Marian Rouse as secretary-treasurer . . . Miss Katherine Thielen as sponsor for the first semester . . . Miss Mabel Clare Allen taking over her duties when Miss Thielen was granted a leave of absence the second semester.

SOCIAL SCIENCE CLUB

Wearing small badges representing mortar boards, answering pertinent questions in the social science field, like "How many handles does a goblet have?" . . . thus were thirty new members initiated into Social Science Club at the first meeting in October . . . Dr. Lucy Lucile Tasher, sponsor.

Planning for and sponsoring the "Gas-saving" Parade . . . the one gas buggy in the parade carrying the Homecoming queen and her court. The second prize of ten dollars for the "Electing ISNU the Winner" float of the SSers . . . also first place honors in the Homecoming house decorations contest . . . one of the most unique among the Class A entries "Normal Is Swinging on a Victory Star" at 410 West Mulberry . . . each star representing a Homecoming activity.

Chinese checkers, ping pong, shuffleboard and gin rummy . . . the annual closed Christmas party in McCormick gym.

Variety of student programs and panels, guest speakers, and quiz sessions . . . "Yucatan, the 'land of the hemp growers,'" subject of the illustrated talk by Miss Eunice Blackburn, ISNU graduate and director of Turner-Hodge school of Merida, Yucatan, and Miss Lura Eystone, professor emerita of the ISNU faculty, who spent some time in Yucatan . . . "What's my name?" feature in the SSC quiz program . . . an opportunity for new members to "shine" . . . questions covering both historical and current events.

Officers this year are Norma Whitver, president; Barbara Wood, vice-president; Helen Jones, recording secretary; Jean Sunderland, corresponding secretary; Billie Herrick, custodian; Frances Grover, treasurer; and Marjorie Porter, sergeant-at-arms.

All it takes to join the Business Education club . . . just be a member of the business education curriculum . . . it has the reputation of being the largest club in the school . . . that in itself is enough to convey the idea that the commerce students are up to their necks in traits of loyalty and cooperation.

Oh, yes, it's this organization that always has the initiations that are really something to look forward to . . . Tuesday night in Old Castle . . . apprehensive freshmen . . . a few gruesome incidents (not too bad) . . . the matter of a small fee . . . a hearty welcome . . . happy freshmen.

There's always something happening on the second Tuesday of each month . . . maybe a Christmas party with games and refreshments . . . a "just for fun" meeting . . . entertaining as well as educational lectures.

Programs such as Freshman Night . . . a take-off on "Truth and Consequences" . . . title, "Cut-ups in the Station TRAMS" . . . local talent, of course . . . freshmen are pretty clever sometimes . . . at least this program was one of the most appreciated of the year.

War-work, too . . . purely volunteer in nature . . . folding 250 to 300 Videttes each week . . . also addressing the wrappers . . . such services may be appreciated far more than they know.

Miss Alta Day tended to the business of the year as sponsor . . . Norma Cooper, president, presided at the monthly meetings . . . Donna Jo Hunt, vice-president, helped keep the cogs running smoothly.

War-time helps a club like this one . . . it's an essential industry for those of the business education field . . . all the enthusiasm and eagerness it can foster can be used to a good advantage on the home front for those who cannot serve except by "sticking to business."

BUSINESS EDUCATION CLUB

ELEMENTARY EDUCATION CLUB

"Learn by Doing" . . . sounds like the Elementary Education Club . . . Could they have taken just a few hints from John Dewey on progressive teaching? Each year's motto is slightly different . . . the aim is fundamentally the same . . . stress on child activities both inside and outside the classroom . . . These future elementary teachers are introduced to some phase of child learning at each meeting.

A large organization open to all elementary students . . . a democratic way of doing things . . . affiliated with the Association of Childhood Education . . . Esther Morris, local representative . . . greatly increased participation in all meetings.

Where did the idea originate that just art students were the only ones who could have the privilege of dabbling in finger-painting? This club had the opportunity to give their artistic desires a work-out by paint smears at their first meeting . . . very "elementary" but quite soul-satisfying . . . also learned to "make music."

The Christmas season convinced everyone how "community-conscious" one club can be . . . Christmas tree . . . gifts for children at the ISSCS . . . a group of jolly carolers . . . original jingles made up by each member . . . weekly story hour in the Metcalf kindergarten and a little fun for the members, a party in the Student Lounge . . . Christmas carols . . . games . . . Dr. Margaret Cooper, faculty sponsor, pointing out the charms of her collection of Christmas angels.

Installation of officers of the first chapter of the Association of Childhood Education in Withers Library . . . quite a high honor . . . students installing teachers!

Dr. Carrington asking "Have you ever met an angry parent?" . . . giving a few pointers on community relations to a group of people who will surely need them in that future "job".

Learning something about books and how they are housed . . . a complete tour of the whole library . . . stacks and all . . . facts that the reading public doesn't know.

These students also know how to wield a hammer without hitting any thumbs . . . Mr. Dragoo gave them a little practice in shop-work in one of the meetings.

Annual spring banquet . . . new officers installed for the coming year . . . an original skit given by the senior members who are leaving.

Marvella Zilly, president, arranged the meetings to help the members learn by doing . . . Beverly Smith, vice-president . . . Martha Robison, secretary . . . Ruth McConnell, treasurer . . . under the guidance of Miss Cooper and Miss Elsie Grime, sponsors.

Fourth Row: Dr. Cooper, Ballard, Peabody, Smith, Robison, Cyrier, McConnell, Zimmer, Harris, Morris, Cholly, Zilly, Miss Grime.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

L'heure each month for the members of Le Cercle Francais is spent with greater spirit and interest since the tables of war have turned for the better and France has been liberated. La presidente Dorothy Weldon . . . assisted by la secretaire-treasiere Juanita Nutt and Mlle. Margery Ellis, directrice . . . leading the linguists avec succes pour l'annee.

The first meeting . . . being held at the home of Mlle. Ellis . . . planning the year's activities. . . . The French fable and play . . . always the limelight of the gatherings. . . . Promoting the aim of providing informal practice in speaking French . . . each one struggling to tell her neighbor in French about the sailor she met last summer, or the new chapeau she hoped Aunt Mary would pay for—d'un chic vraiment parisien (the hat, not the sailor).

At the Christmas party chez Evelyn Bell . . . Juanita Nutt reading the Christmas story, "L'Evangile selon Saint Luc," as is the custom . . . Betty Cross and Alice Stanberry reciting the Twenty-third Psalm, Le Seigneur est mon berger . . . the members spending the remainder of the time in warbling French Christmas carols . . . exchanging gifts . . . playing games . . . and last but not least, in partaking of refreshments. . . . At another meeting . . . the members forgetting Culbertson and having much fun concentrating on a French card game, Learn-a-lingo . . . listening to French records . . . Charles Trenett singing "Je Chante" and "Vous avez oublie votre cheval."

Le Cercle Francais truly expressing the enthusiasm and spirit of the French people . . . these American-French-speaking mesdemoiselles gaining a pleasure and skill from the language that only those who study and love it may acquire . . . their natural aspiration to visit France in the future, after it has begun to rebuild its war-torn land . . . having been inspired by hearing about Mlle. Ellis's experiences in France.

What etudiant who has had a taste of the language does not yearn to visit Paris with her two thousand years of uninterrupted civilization . . . Gallic, Roman, Frankish, French . . . during this time renowned for beauty and as a center of learning and art. . . . The attraction of bookstores on a Paris quay . . . the Arc de Triomphe . . . the site of the Bastille . . . the cathedral of Notre Dame with its priceless stained glass windows in which visitors always find stimulation . . . la Sorbonne . . . l'Opera . . . Le Louvre . . . la Bibliotheque Nationale . . . sidewalk cafes . . . L'Avenue des Champs-Elysees . . . Quartier latin . . . Rue de la Paix . . . Montmartre.

Le Cercle Francais rounding out its activities for the year with the annual spring picnic . . . with parting songs . . . "Au Clair de la Lune" . . . "Frere Jacques" . . . "Plantons la Vigne" . . . the group, a savoir, Iris McKinney . . . Phyllis Hildebrand . . . Evelyn Bell . . . Dorothy Weldon . . . June Mitchell . . . Jean Joseph . . . Nadine Wood . . . Juanita Nutt . . . resolving to meet again in the true French custom.

LATIN CLUB

"The meeting will please come to order" . . . President Marilyn Theis.

"Will the secretary please read the minutes of the last meeting" . . . and Secretary-treasurer Myra Barz complies.

"The program tonight has been arranged by Kenneth Miller, vice-president and program chairman, with the guidance of Miss Lenore Geweke, sponsor."

Familiar to all members of Latin Club are these statements and persons . . . every fourth Tuesday evening at seven . . . the old meeting place, M-212 . . . anyone who is interested in the purposes of the Club is eligible for membership.

In addition to the regular business meetings and programs . . . special events of the year. . . . Hallowe'en party at the home of Miss Katherine Carver, former sponsor . . . Latin counterparts of the modern Hallowe'en which is really an outgrowth of an old Roman custom . . . even Romanized shivers produced by the reading of ghost stories from the letters of Pliny . . . also a scene from the play, "The Haunted House" by Plautus.

Junella Baxter read the traditional Christmas story in Latin at the December meeting . . . a talk by Joyce Anderson explained how the Romans celebrated a similar holiday in honor of Saturn . . . the stage in Philadelphia Hall was the scene for a walk-on play, "In Terra Pax," (Peace on Earth) . . . Christmas carols were sung in Latin and English.

Marilyn Theis served as toastmistress at the annual spring banquet . . . May first at the Bloomington YWCA . . . menu printed in Latin . . . Dr. Regina Connell and Miss Carver, guests . . . graduating seniors requested to give a farewell speech or stunt . . . program consisting of a fun quiz about Caesar.

At the regular April meeting . . . records of the opera, Dido and Aeneas . . . Mrs. Willetta Ream reigning in the Carnegie Room at Milner Library . . . At the University Carnival, May 19, Latin Club sponsored the Oracle of Delphi . . . Three members, dressed in Roman togas, foretold the future . . . Love, Fortune, and Money.

The Club has been a part of University activities since 1920 . . . an increase in membership this year . . . evidence that Latin is not dead.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

From picnics to programs . . . food to fashion . . . Home Ec clubbers find plenty to chat about at their monthly meetings.

Large attendance . . . SRO signs put out quite often . . . organized to help the girls within the department become better acquainted . . . offering an opportunity to talk about the big job expected of the home economist.

Meet Mary Alice Glenn . . . senior from Yorkville . . . dreaming up schemes to keep members busy . . . vice-prexy Elaine Anderson, who took over the gavel while the president was off-campus doing student teaching . . . holding the purse and notebook, Dorrie Holmes . . . acquiring a good case of writer's cramp from all of the dues receipts . . . Miss Frances Conkey, general overseer and moral support-er of the group.

Anna Gorman, program chairman . . . ideas galore for interesting meetings . . . baking cookies for the Red Cross Canteen at the C & A station, a sure sign that Home Ec. majors can wield the cook-book and the spatula . . . Mrs. R. W. Fairchild's discussion of "Old Glassware" and her exhibit of rare goblets, all different designs . . . reports from conventioners Mary Glenn, who attended the state convention, and Pat Moore, who went to the national convention last summer . . . Jewell Bailey bringing back interesting anecdotes from the Merrill-Palmer summer camp . . . monthly meetings can be fun.

All work and no play would never do . . . social events crowding the calendar . . . starting off with the fall picnic . . . welcoming freshmen in the department . . . working up an appetite with charades and games . . . Freshies honored again at formal initiation . . . proudly wearing the blue and gold colors of the club.

Homecoming time . . . chatting with "new" teachers . . . "Did you have to make all of the costumes for the play?" . . . "Gosh, teaching doesn't sound like a bed of roses!" . . . decorating the float . . . Open House at the Home Management House after the game . . . old grads meeting the new head of the department, Dr. Henrietta Fleck.

Christmas party for club members and guests . . . caroling and games . . . mixed together with "just right" refreshments . . . last social event of the year . . . spring picnic out at the Baby Fold . . . farewell to the seniors . . . introducing next year's officers . . . fun and more food . . . the 1945 record book closes.

HOME MANAGEMENT HOUSE

Chatting around the open fireplace . . . scavenger hunts . . . dinner parties . . . such is the social calendar of the Home Ec major living in the Home Management House.

Co-operation in the daily cleaning . . . keeping floors, walls and woodwork shining . . . an asset to the physical fitness program.

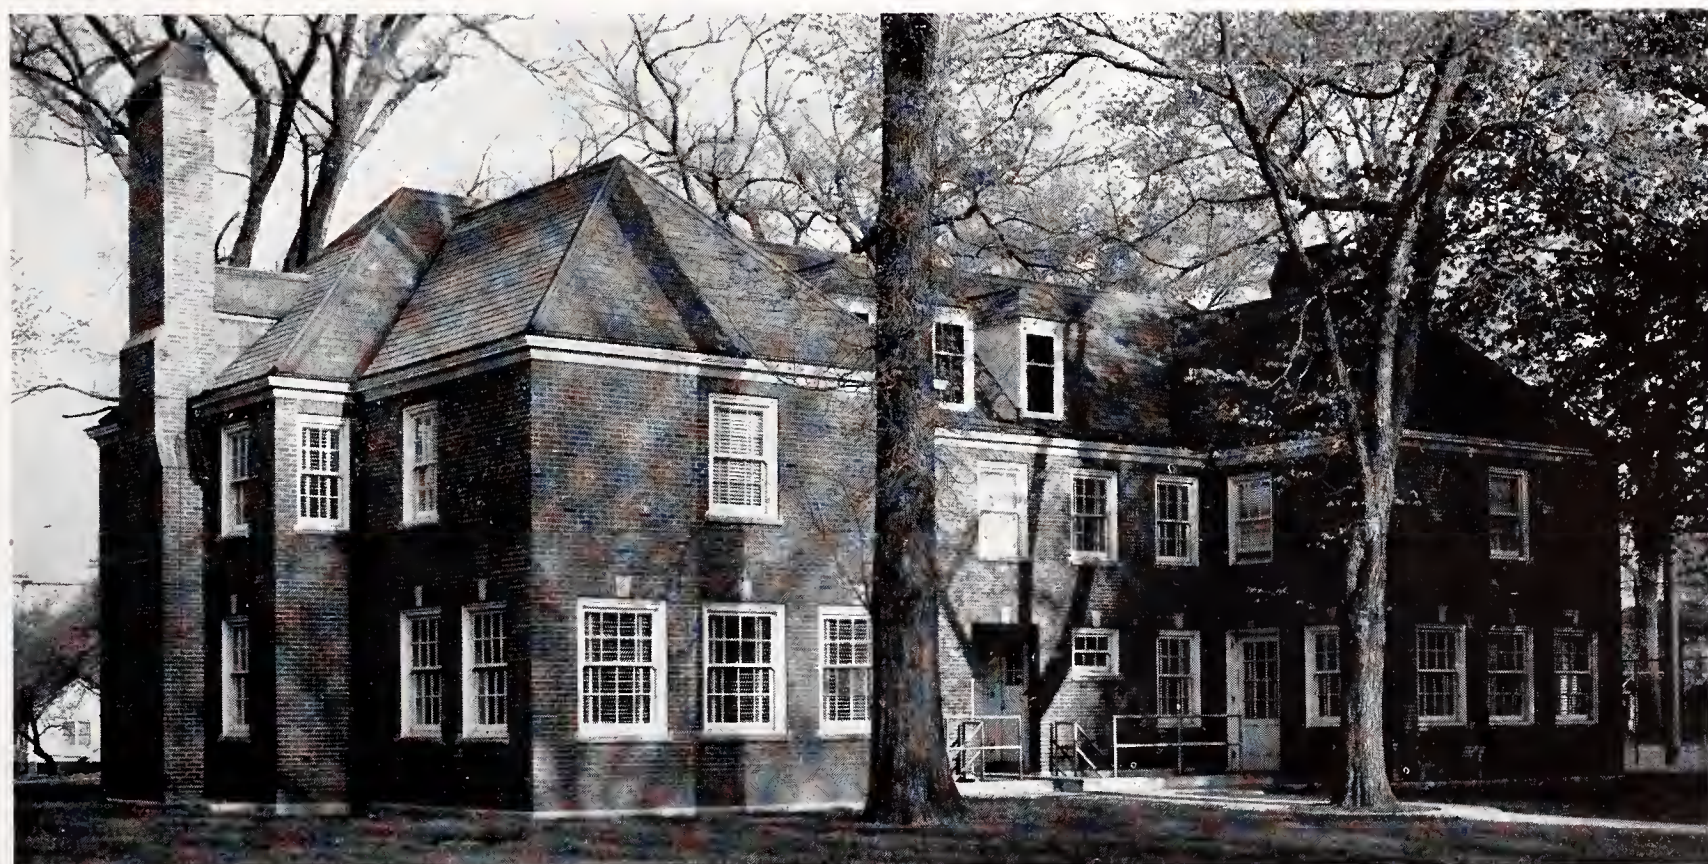

Home Management House turning out good cooks . . . learning to manipulate the electric timer so the roast can brown during assembly . . . no one suffering from indigestion—yet . . . figuring accounts and living within the budget.

A practical example of how to furnish a home in either modern or traditional style . . . demonstration center for Home Ec classes . . . serving many purposes.

Miss Frances Conkey, house director . . . laughing with and at the housekeeping attempts of college girls . . . an unexpected shower while washing Venetian blinds . . . an apple pie toppling out of the oven—wrong side up . . . a home with responsibilities plus fun.

HIERONYMUS CLUB

Anyone around here from the farm? That goes without saying. Even a small village will do . . . the Hieronymus club is a good place for those interested in rural life . . . it's even affiliated with the National American Country Life Association . . . a few pointers gleaned at each meeting on how to get the most from farm life . . . In war-time the importance of farm labor problems is a new challenge to everyone concerned.

Twenty-five new members were initiated during the first semester . . . it looks as though the club should have increasing returns . . . problems should be easily solved with so much gray matter in the process.

During the year . . . a panel discussion on what the individual communities are doing to promote rural welfare . . . first-hand information . . . good for onlookers as well as participants.

A "fun" party in the Student Lounge at Christmas time . . . games and chatter, mostly. Also a Sunday afternoon get-together at Dr. Rose Parker's home . . . as club sponsor, she knows what interests this particular group.

Reports were given by Bertha Harper and President Ruth McConnell, delegates to a meeting of the American Country Life Association in New York . . . this club really gets around.

Another initiation given in the middle of the year, also . . . not so many new ones this time, but enough to give spice to the meetings . . . members are proud of their initiation ceremonies.

The flowers, birds, and bees called when spring-time came . . . so out they went for a picnic . . . those bugs tasted wonderful in such a setting . . . at least, there was more food than bugs.

All these programs were planned and executed by Lois Terpening, program chairman . . . traditions of the organization were especially well set forth . . . Beverly Smith, vice-president, was "stand-in" for any necessary jobs that came her way . . . Marjorie Fredrickson handled the income and outgo as treasurer . . . June Mitchell, secretary, recorded each activity.

Hieronymus . . . a big name for an organization with a big future . . . not nearly as far-fetched as it sounds . . . concerned with both national and local welfare of rural life . . . anyone with a hankering for the farm may join . . . be just another "hay-seed" . . . might grow into a big stack!

Even during a slack year . . . at least, how could it help being a "little on the lonely side"? . . . the group representing approximately forty-three percent of the population of the United States has managed to foster hope and integrate the farm life of today with that of tomorrow . . . a gigantic task even for a national organization . . . for a school club, the "part makes up the whole" and it really does its part.

NATURE STUDY CLUB

"What can this queer-looking insect be, Dr. Young? Can it be the proverbial humbug?"

"Can't we go on farther into this thicket to find more birds? I saw a perfectly beautiful brown thrasher in that little bush."

"Look what I've got! This is a fine specimen for my collection."

Yes, it is Nature Study club . . . these comments are the typical ones made during one of those hikes . . . what can be more inspiring than to wander around in the wide open spaces?

Prairie flowers and insects were the objects of their first outing . . . a trip to Wilmington to gather plant and animal fossils in the old strip mines . . . a long day spent in the dust and the wind but the collectors were not too tired to lug home their precious best finds.

These nature-lovers delighted in meeting outdoors, but during the winter they hibernated in the science building to learn how to make the most of their field trips that they planned when the weather was again inviting.

A graduate student in biology, Betty Wilcox . . . major interest in health and sanitation . . . discussed malaria prevention and control . . . her experience gave life and zest to the facts she presented.

Dr. Karl Bleyl told the members about the returning veteran and his relation to health problems . . . he explained that the major concern should be about diseases at home already, rather than about those few the returning service man will probably bring with him.

At another meeting a movie of western scenery was shown at Milner library . . . canyons, craters, and rocks . . . each member felt his own insignificance as he watched these wonders of nature.

When warm weather came in the spring the members "flew the coop" . . . hikes again . . . it seems that they like birds better than beauty sleep early in the morning . . . Miller Park was often frequented . . . an annual . . . food for the body as well as for the brain.

The subjects that occupy these people's time are numerous . . . health and sanitation . . . plant forms from A to Z . . . with the help of a key, of course . . . animals, their habits and species . . . birds of all descriptions . . . insects, strange and familiar . . . dead or alive, these are the objects of many an hour's hard work and concentration.

Oh, sure . . . these are the things that are needed to make good teachers in every field . . . even an "in-born" love of our natural environment isn't essential . . . the quality is brought out in each individual that has been there all the time.

Club objectives . . . conservation of wild plant and animal life . . . appreciation of each detail seen in nature . . . identification of each form observed . . . all for future biology teachers . . . also open to anyone who wishes to develop a better acquaintance with Mother Nature.

Scientifically speaking, the faculty has the first say-so in the Science Club . . . they are the ones that select the members on an honorary basis. The members must show a proficiency in physical science . . . biological science . . . home economics . . . agriculture . . . mathematics . . . geography . . . any of these will do to join the ranks of those interested in the same fields of exploration.

A few of the things this club did this past year . . . everyone went "Rambling in Yucatan" with Miss Lura Eyestone . . . former teacher of third grade in Metcalf . . . she showed colored films of historical ruins and life of the natives of Yucatan.

Another meeting . . . technical, this time . . . Dr. L. O. Poland gave information on "Enzyme Chemistry" . . . discovery . . . history . . . properties . . . preparation . . . too much for most people . . . almost a "snap" for those who know.

Not always scientific is the bent of the scientific mind . . . a Christmas party with no thought of books or formulas . . . a picnic in the spring to ease the thoughts of equations and valence.

Fifth row: Mr. Cross, Mrs. Cross, Donnell, Fredrickson, Mr. Adoms, Dr. Poland.
Fourth row: Dr. Young, Mr. Miller, Dr. McCormick, P. Potterson, Sponsler, Posey, Robinsen.
Third row: Colhoon, Rolley, Robison, Tombough, J. Potterson, Terpening.
Second row: Harper, Brown, Schmidt, Browne, Mourer.
First row: Moore, Pyle, Dr. McAvoy, Torreyson.

One of the older clubs on the campus . . . the only one that boasts the tradition of having a faculty member as president . . . it's proud of its members as being some of the people coming from the fields which are considered the most difficult . . . although was it John Dewey that said that true scientific power is the work of the imagination?

Helping the club to "keep up with the Huxleys, the Darwins, and the Harveys was Dr. Ralph U. Gooding, faculty president . . . Ruth Pence as vice-president gave the biology students a little precedence by having their field represented in the officers of the group . . . Patricia Moore as secretary-treasurer gave the home economics majors the same bit of power by doing her bit towards the mechanics of the year's program.

SCIENCE CLUB

Letters, letters, letters—all going to prospective freshmen . . . "Come to the YW Welcome Tea for all women in the Student Lounge during the first week of classes". . . Ho Hum! But you won't be yawning after our hike out into the country and the tasty breakfast in the Metcalf rooms—the annual Walk-Out Breakfast.

"Give me ten more mums! They're all sold before I can get out the door" . . . the all-campus Homecoming Service at the Christian Church Sunday morning . . . inspiring address by Dr. Harold Martin. . . . "Bring in more chairs—everyone has come to hear Miss Catherine "Kitty" Liu tell about Chinese student life."

Something new—official membership cards given to all members at the Recognition Service . . . Miss Beatrice Goff spoke for this event at the Presbyterian Church. . . .

a Thanksgiving party for "staying in town" YW girls in the home of Miss Neva McDavitt, sponsor. . . . Delegates to the Area Conference in Galesburg in November.

Miss Dorothy Hinman reading "The Other Wise Man" . . . traditional Christmas story at the White Gift Service . . . gifts under the brightly decorated tree were sent to the children of the Bloomington Day Nursery.

Basic to all these special features were the weekly activities . . . worship service . . . business meetings . . . monthly YW cabinet sessions . . . individual hours of meditation in the quiet of the White Room . . . music, lamps, homelike furniture, books, and devotional material . . . a spotlight on the large oil print of Hoffman's Christ and the Doctors, a gift from the faculty advisory board.

Selected as theme for the year's programs—"Christian Faith" . . . guest speakers—Dr. Ernest M. Lamkey, Dr. Gladys Bartle, Rev. A. E. Beechy, Miss Betty Rae Hileman, Dr. Charles E. Decker, Prof. Leslie M. Isted, Dr. Herbert Hiett, Miss Lela Winegarner . . . many programs presented by student committees.

. . . So reads the sketchy story of the first year in the recently restored White Room, where the very first college YW was founded by Lida Brown McMurray in 1872 . . . the movement begun on our campus has spread to national proportions. . . . Officers for 1944-45 included Jewell Bailey, president . . . Martha Lewis, vice-president . . . Emma Chandler, secretary . . . Maxine Sponsler, treasurer . . . eleven committee chairmen.

Here is your weekly Social Science Forum being broadcast from the Tower Studios of WJBC on the campus of Illinois State Normal University" . . . so begins the student announcer on one of the eleven weekly broadcasts . . . the voice just heard was that of Ramon Hanson, head announcer. . . . Also at the mike or at controls are Marietta Edwards and Jean Lehman.

A new program this year . . . SCHOOL DAYS, Thursdays at 10:30 a.m. . . . Metcalf School at work and play . . . elementary children participate . . . visitors from nearby rural and elementary schools . . . and outgrowth of classroom activities.

Also scheduled . . . Miss Frances Conkey, HOME-MAKERS CHATS, Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. . . . STORY HOUR for young children, conducted by Lucy Culver and Marion Esmond . . . UNIVERSITY HIGH SCHOOL ON THE AIR, written and presented by high school students . . . programs of vocal and instrumental music . . . discussions of education and schools in the post-war world . . . war activities of the University and community . . . UNIVERSITY HEALTH SCHOOL OF THE AIR, directed by Dr. Karl Bleyl . . . weekly review and preview of campus activities.

Last year 890 different students and faculty members participated in a variety of programs . . . geography quizzes, movements from symphonies, ultra-dramatic presentations of original dramas. . . . Big guest book contains the names of over one thousand persons who have visited the studios in Cook Hall.

Members of the Radio Committee in charge of scheduling programs: Dr. Helen E. Marshall, chairman; Prof. O. L. Young, vice-chairman; Miss Mary Arnold, secretary; Mrs. Gertrude Hall, Prof. Leslie M. Isted, and Miss Lucile Crosby.

TOWER STUDIOS

Swing records . . . a blanket party . . . a blackmailing kid sister . . . a war-busy mother . . . a father who feels mistreated . . . two admirers, army and civilian . . . a town full of soldiers . . . a quiet house party . . . a soldier locked in the bathroom . . . a sailor asleep on the sofa . . . all these added up to trouble for Janie Colburn in the Homecoming play "Janie" presented October 20 and 21.

Betty Joe Blake's deliverance of Janie from her problem brought such remarks as "super-duper" from the first and second night audiences. A.S. Gerald Grodsky as Scooper, the civilian boy friend, and Phil Buscemi as Dick, the soldier heartbeat, also were classed in the "all reet" division.

Others in this play by Josephine Bentham and Herschel Williams who had plenty "on the ball" were Iris Bates as Bernadine and A.S. John Hanley as Dead Pan Hackett . . . also Grace Kinsey, Ruthelma Benjamin, Hope Norton, Emma Jane Thiebaud played roles as part of the family and friends.

The audience . . . always with Janie, a typical girl in every sense of the word . . . yet, her poor parents . . . everyone was quite torn between the two conflicting motives . . . who would win out? There were some tense moments when poor Janie was about to be caught redhanded.

Yes, for Homecoming it was quite the "just right" play . . . not too out of this world, nor too common . . . alumni were not disappointed . . . they were happy to say that good old ISNU had upheld its traditions and standards in play production.

In March . . . a psychological thriller by the name of "Angel Street" . . . the Hollywood production was known as "Gaslight" . . . critics seemed to agree, however, that the film version was inferior to the stage play.

UNIVERSITY PLAYS

Mrs. Manningham struggles against her husband's cruelty in the final scene of "Angel Street."

Lower left: "Behind the scenes"—lighting is just one of those many indispensables in a good production.

"Please, don't fight, boys!"

The "oldsters" enjoy a toast before their night life.

"Jonie, you stole my heart!" sing the soldiers for their hostess.

Nancy lures Mr. Manningham in "Angel Street"

A three-act Victorian chiller . . . real acting was portrayed by Marietta Harper as Mrs. Manningham in the play . . . she had the sympathy of the audience until the very last.

Mr. Manningham was played by A.S. Sam Smith . . . he toyed with a dangerous game for keeps, as he thought . . . an attempt to drive his wife insane by constant fear and thought.

Inspector Rough . . . August Lorenzini seemed to be just the person to give the effect of the bustling, busy, likeable detective.

Then the servants . . . Elizabeth, a good natured soul who was truly interested and tried to help the case of Mrs. Manningham . . . she knew about Mr. Manningham, but had to keep "mum". Dorothy Marsh gave to this part the necessary impressions and ideals.

Nancy . . . 19 years old . . . unscrupulous, spoiled . . . a maid who took more interest in men than her work . . . she meant all right, but she did have a weak spot in her heart for the opposite sex . . . Mrs. Manningham's illness gave her an opportunity to take advantage of her employer . . . Mary Etta Edwards played this provocative part with a flourish.

The plot . . . a husband accused his wife of petty disorders of the mind . . . slowly she came to believe him, as her family had had many cases of insanity . . . each new incident had been carefully arranged by Mr. Manningham to further her fears . . . subtle hints from him could not possibly help.

However, such things could not be tolerated by the Inspector, who helped the troubled wife capture her imagination and bring reality into the light.

Yes . . . the gas lights flickered . . . footsteps were heard in an empty house . . . misplaced articles . . . poor health . . . repeated insistence that she was going mad . . . a premonition of something fearful . . . it was so convincing that it couldn't be helped . . . she just knew she was going mad . . . she couldn't help herself . . . but the queer part of it was that she really wasn't . . . she had to be convinced by the detective, who was helped out by one of the faithful servants, Elizabeth.

Well, it all had a happy ending . . . after the spine-chilling events . . . after doubts and fears had been expelled . . . after the guilty one had been caught . . . the innocent cleared . . . the audience drew a deep breath and went home in a settled state of mind.

Miss Mabel Clare Allen, assistant professor of speech, directed the play . . . Alvera Beatty was the student assistant director . . . the whole play was enjoyed by actors, directors, and watchers . . . well worth the time and effort on stage and behind the scenes.

Everyone goes to plays . . . they are a part of school life . . . good experience for future teachers when they will have to direct their own plays . . . on a smaller scale, perhaps, but nevertheless they are art in their own tiny sphere.

These student actors and actresses will say when asked that they enjoy acting enough to make up for all the late hours, headaches, endless repetition, time taken from studies . . . indeed, it is a kind of study in itself . . . character perception to the extent that one lives the part in which he is cast.

ISNU is proud of its plays . . . as long as there is interest in schools, people, and life, there will be plays and more plays in the years to come.

SPEECH ACTIVITIES

ISNU'S four debate teams, coached by Dr. F. L. D. Holmes . . . Rosemary Browne and Patricia Weldon . . . Marjorie Johnson and Iris Shreve . . . Janice Ellingsworth and Lorraine Bailey . . . Allegra Gulon and Edith Morris.

A junior peace conference at the University of Iowa . . . Weldon and Browne, undefeated. In January, the Annual Invitational Debate Tournament at ISNU . . . schools from Iowa, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Ohio . . . debates and discussions on the intercollegiate question, . . . compulsory arbitration of all labor disputes after voluntary methods have failed."

Year's biggest thrill . . . student's peace conference at University of Nebraska . . . students from fourteen states . . . in form of regular world peace conference . . . resolutions sent to Congress . . . both ISNU debate teams rated "excellent" . . . individual "excellent" ratings to Johnson and to Weldon . . . "superior" in discussion, Weldon spoke in a broadcast of the University of Nebraska Forum of the Air.

In March the second annual School-Wide Discussion contest . . . compulsory military training in peacetime . . . cash award winners named from the six students in the finals . . . Connie Thomassen, first place . . . the organizations' plaque, Philadelphians, represented by Ellingsworth. The Phil-Wright rivalry brought victory for the Phils for the 44th time in 84 years . . . Phil winners, Patricia Parker, Anita Dorsey, Blanche McCoy, Ellingsworth and Bailey . . . victorious Wrights, Iris Bates and Johnson.

Contestants in state meet at Wheaton . . . fourth place to Thurman Coss, A.S., men's extempore . . . also coached for the event by Dr. Fred Sorrenson . . . Gulon, women's extemp . . . Johnson and Hanson, oration. At Augustana, Pi Kappa Delta Province Tournament . . . Hanson, second place in both extemp and oration . . . Johnson, women's oratory . . . Shreve, women's extemp. The Annual Edwards Medal Contest . . . medals to Morris and Johnson . . . Miss Mabel Clare Allen, coach for the poetry readers.

HOMECOMING

Throngs of people . . . last minute preparations . . . haggard faces from loss of sleep . . . co-eds and college Joes running thither and yon giving out last-minute instructions . . . all intermingled with the throbbing music from the band and hilarious welcomes to the alums. And so with all things ship-shape and anchors aweigh the twenty-fourth celebration of ISNU's annual Homecoming began.

Starting the Homecoming celebration off with a bang and previewing the events was the take-off assembly . . . giving the new students an idea of what to expect during the gala weekend . . . introducing the "Andrews Sisters" to ISNU.

The first problem . . . to collect all wood in sight for the bonfire. The second problem . . . to post guards within a two-hundred-yard radius to keep Wesleyanites on their own side of the fence . . . guards' failure to appear on the scene . . . consequently, some unknown instigators set a match to the heap and had a celebration all their own before the pep rally had even begun. Student Council to the rescue . . . gathering enough debris to furnish the student body with a small bonfire.

Came the dawn Saturday . . . early birds arising for the Women's League breakfast . . . sleepy faces mustering for the parade sponsored by the Social Science Club. Spectators jamming the curbs for a glimpse at the costumed participants . . . gala decorations, and the queen with her court . . . The parade leaving Fell Gate at 9:30 a.m. led by the American Legion Color Guard . . . Seven organizations sponsoring entries in gas-saving spectacle . . . Homecoming queen and her court using the one car that participated. Fifteen dollars to Women's Recreational Association for its float portraying women's sports . . . ten dollars to Social Science Club for its float "Electing ISNU the Winner" . . . eight dollars to the Elementary Club for its "Forward America" . . . six dollars to the Home Economics Club for its "Send Them Back to Indiana All Cut Up" . . . and so on down the line to the last prize of three dollars which went to the Vidette staff for their "Peerade Wrextry" . . . Members of the staff donning old clothes and presenting to the crowd miniature Videttes (Weedettes) containing jokes and cartoons.

All of those who weren't too sleepy noticing quite a number of additions to the wardrobes of first year teachers . . . Mums in profusion were displayed on the new fur coats.

After the parade . . . guests and students hurrying to see Navy inspection . . . bringing war home to us with a reminder that these boys in blue might very well be on a cruiser, a P.T. boat, or a carrier before the next Homecoming celebration rolls around.

Navy hats filling the air . . . crowds cheering as the queen and her court ride around the stadium in an open car before the game . . . Luck with game no better than luck with the bonfire . . . Normal losing to Indiana State 13-6.

Orchids to the seven-five-piece all-girl marching band and director Wayne Sherrard . . . a fine exhibition between the halves of the game . . . entering the field in a V-formation . . . forming a clock which ticked off the daily routine of a soldier's life from reveille to taps . . . relating the significance of the formations to the audience by the means of narrator Dr. F.L.D. Holmes . . . marching off the field in an N-formation while playing the Loyalty song of ISNU . . . from the alums was heard, "Normal was never like this!"

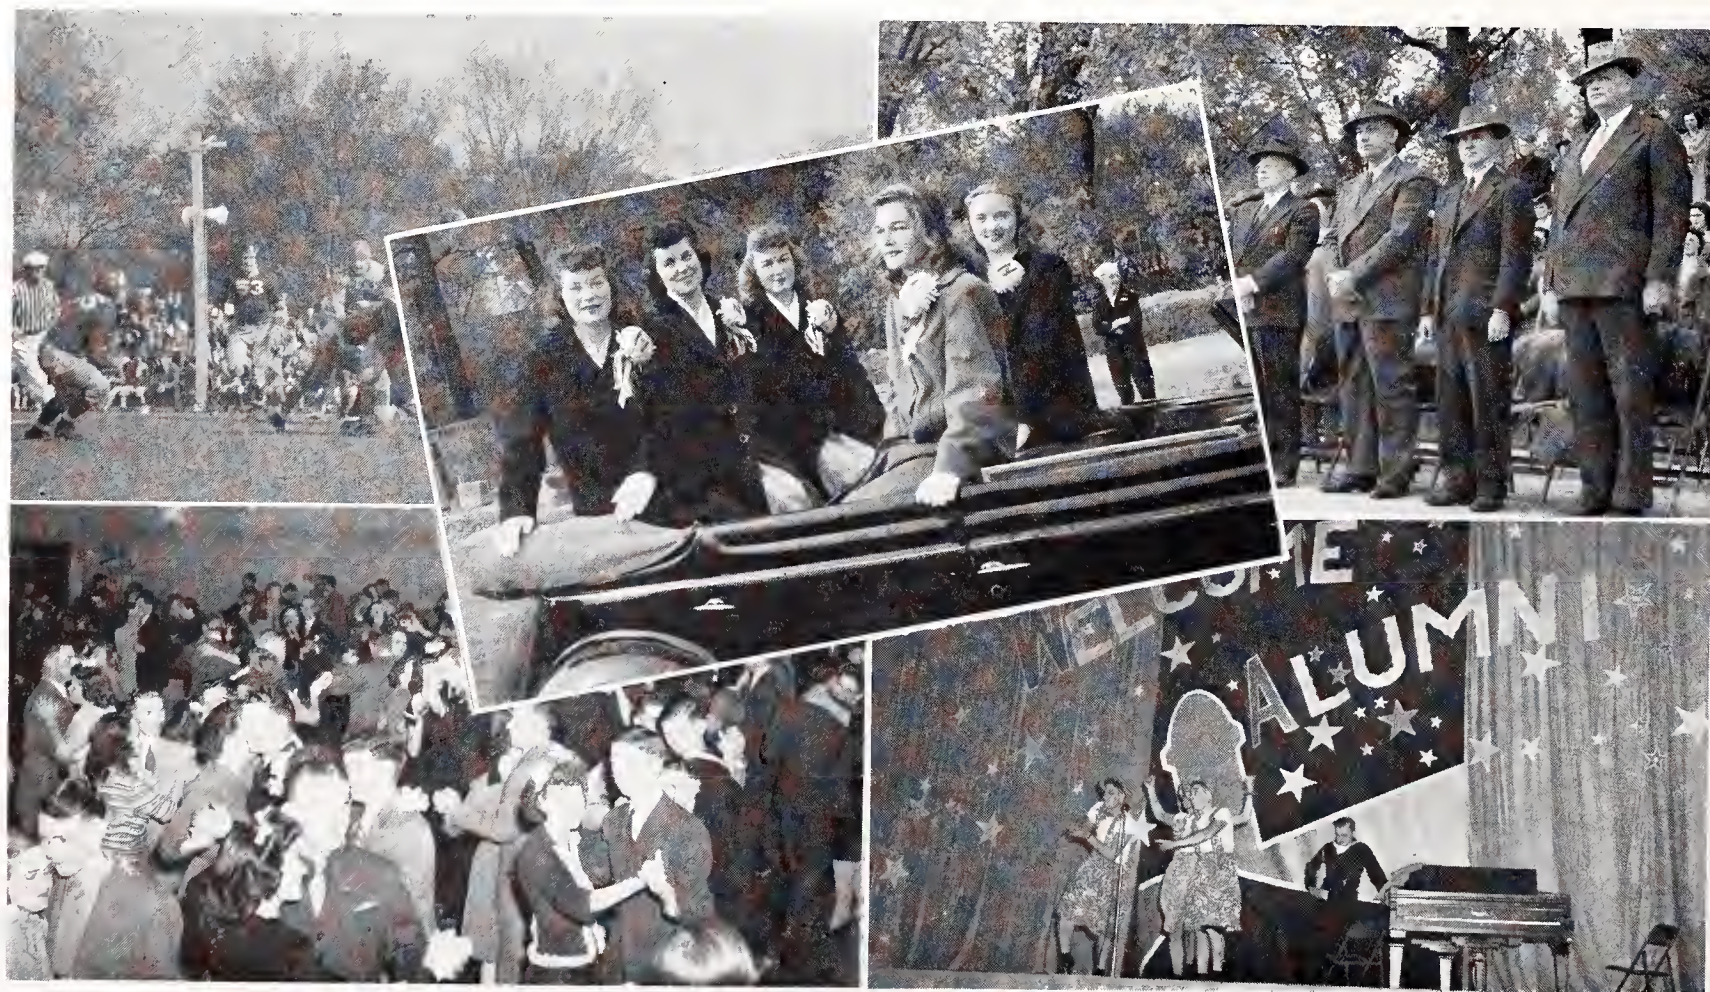

Climaxing a day of merriment and excitement the melting rhythms of George Hamilton and his orchestra pouring out into the rapidly crowding gym . . . After intermission . . . the sounding of trumpets . . . Queen Beverly Smith entering followed by her court . . . Joyce Johnston . . . Alicejane Froland . . . Dorothy Carlson . . . and Norma Schroeder . . . The next event—the crowning with Don Pinder, President of the N Club, doing the honors. The gym transformed by elaborate decorations . . . different service insignias along the walls . . . hanging from the ceiling, huge colored chandeliers resembling candles . . . lights reflecting toward the ceiling.

Friday and Saturday nights promptly at 8:15 saw Capen overflowing . . . spectators awaiting the production of the Homecoming play Janie. Modern comedy evolving around the experiences of a pretty high school girl who had double trouble entertaining a crowd of Uncle Sam's infantry against the wishes of her father. Janie managing to devise and concoct wild schemes appropriate to all teen-agers . . . her escapades bringing tears of laughter to eyes of onlookers. The cast . . . starring Betty Joe Blake as Janie . . . Grace Kinsey taking the part of Mrs. Colburn, Janie's mother . . . Ramon Hanson, the vociferous Mr. Coburn . . . Hope Norton, Iris Bates, and Emma Jane Thiebaud playing the parts of Janie's three girl friends, Paula, Bernadine, and Hortense . . . Furnishing the love interest in Janie's life were Scooper and Dick, enacted by Gerold Grodsky, A.S., and Philip Buscemi . . . Mr. Van Brunt, a friend of the family, is better known as Robert Lindsey.

After the play . . . faculty greeting students and visitors at the canteen in McCormick Gym. Card tables filling one end of the gym for those who are up on their Culbertson or old-fashioned auction . . . the time and place for alums to give out with long dissertations on the wiles and ways of the big cruel world or making one's living in the teaching field.

Main interest after the canteen . . . who won first for house decorations? Themes for the decorations illustrating ideas from farm scenes to fortune telling . . . one of the most unique among Class A entries, the first place winner "Normal Is Swinging On a Star" entered by the Social Science Club at 410 West Mulberry Street.

Right: Homecoming Queen Bev Smith and her court, Dorothy Carlson, Joyce Jahnston, Norma Schroeder and Alicejane Froland, seem to be "happy about the whale thing."

Below: Pres. R. W. Fairchild honoring those ISNU men represented by the gold stars on the service flag.

Men in the service were not forgotten by girls at 210 Normal Avenue winning first place in Class B with their "Letter to GI Joe" . . . each page of the letter depicting a Homecoming event.

Home Economics Club winning second place in Class A with "Terre Hoot Gets the Boot" . . . Navy V-12 unit at Fell Hall winning third place with the theme "You Can't Beat a Spirit Like This" . . . Second place in Class B won by the girls at 403 South University, "Forecasting of Homecoming Events" . . . "Goin' My Way" at 412 West Mulberry Street took third place . . . students discovering missing study lamps the week after Homecoming which had been used for lighting the decorations.

Sunday morning . . . Y.W.C.A. members holding their sunrise service . . . Former honor residents of Fell Hall renewing old friendships at the annual reunion.

A note of solemnity perhaps greater than ever before in the history of the school reigning over this Homecoming of 1944 . . . all feeling the presence of those who certainly would have been present but for one thing. The war in its third year taking many former ISNU students who would never see another Homecoming at ISNU . . . others battling under fire that very day in order that Homecoming celebrations such as ours would be carried on forever . . . a feeling that they too were with us as we talked, danced, watched the game, sang around the bonfire, watched Navy inspection, and participated in numerous other activities was prevalent.

Warm smiles . . . sleepy goodnights from the students and alums . . . the old school resuming its normal routine once more until next year when another Homecoming celebration would freshen the memories of college days at ISNU for old and new alums.

COMMENCEMENT

The strains of band music . . . the echo of a bugle . . . the procession drawing slowly down the path leading to Sherwood Forest . . . the faculty in academic dress with colorful hoods representing academic achievements in various universities . . . blue and white for Columbia . . . maroon for Chicago . . . gold and blue for Notre Dame, and so on . . . excited parents and friends who have come to view these graduates as they play their final role on the campus and enact the conclusive scene of four long years spent in achieving knowledge and social grace . . . bystanders with cameras taking snapshots for their memory books as the graduates march to the half circle of chairs placed before the speaker's stand.

Bits of Commencement one will never forget . . . the selected undergraduates in red gowns acting as marshalls . . . dreaming of the day when they will be wearing the black robes of graduation . . . the sun filtering through the trees making patches of sunlight on the assembled group . . . directors of divisions proudly presenting their candidates and standing as the graduates pass by . . . seeing a parent wipe away a tear . . . bidding of fond farewells to college chums . . . loading the car with class notes accumulated during four long years . . . promises to return next year for Homecoming.

President Fairchild coming forward to present the diplomas . . . the graduates, evenly distanced, moving across the stage and accepting their newly named degree of Bachelor of Science in Education . . . They, sensing only too well that their job is to rebuild that which has been destroyed, and resting upon their shoulders is the burden of creating a new life—one that will bring an end to this disease called war—and hoping that what life holds is not a matter of indecision but a fair and a common purpose, a common conviction, and a common devotion.

Watching fellow classmates go forward to accept their degrees . . . recalling the past memories of bygone years to the mind . . . stumbling to ever present eight o'clock classes on the cold dark mornings . . . receiving the first A in English Composition . . . the thrill of the first football game . . . teachers becoming pals instead of just people piling on work. All of these things have taken up the countless hours of the days at ISNU.

Now President Fairchild making the charge to the class: "By the acceptance of the degree which has been conferred upon you and the diploma which has just been presented to you, each of you is entering this day a worthy company composed of all those everywhere who have enjoyed the privilege and bear the responsibilities of scholarly culture and professional training . . . Into this great fellowship of noble alumni we welcome you in the name of the university. We charge you to be strong, loyal, and unfaltering in your trust to your Alma Mater, to your profession, to your state, and to your nation, and may a kindly omnipotent providence guide your steps now and in years to come."

And so it is the end of one phase of life and the beginning of another . . . the recessional signals for the march back together between the faculty rows to Old Main.

ASSEMBLIES

What Wednesday at about 9:45 a.m. hasn't a student said to himself, "Shall I sleep, shall I study, or shall I trot over to Capen and indulge in an hour of refinement and culture?" Visions of his name posted on the bulletin board results in a decision upon the latter, and he joins the throng at Four Corners moving toward Capen Auditorium. Sitting comfortably in his assigned seat . . . discovering that the program planned for him is worth coming for after all.

The programs . . . planned by a thoughtful committee made up of both faculty and students interested in creating that feeling of unity and solidarity in the student body and in furthering their knowledge of the world about them.

Reminiscing over the timely topics of the weekly programs throughout the year. . . . First assembly in September by President Fairchild . . . welcoming the new faces, the familiar faces, and the Navy V-12 . . . informing the newcomers about the activities and purposes of the school. . . . Next . . . Edgar Drake speaking on "Juvenile Delinquency."

First assembly in October . . . Coach Hancock explaining the difference between a first down and a touchdown for the benefit of the feminine cheering section. . . . Then October 11 . . . "Issues and Interests Related to ISNU Students" by President Fairchild. . . . The following week . . . the Homecoming assembly . . . previewing the events of the coming weekend.

November 1 . . . Dr. Richard Browne behind the eightball, elucidating "The Issues and Personalities in the Presidential Election" but proving to be very tactful on this touchy subject . . . giving some very interesting accounts of the candidates and parties . . . emphasizing the fact that the most important thing about our national election is that we have one at all in time of war . . . students spending the whole hour listening intently to every word in order to discover Dr. Browne's favorite candidate . . . but, to their amazement, not one word or sentence revealing his party preference.

Next Wednesday . . . the students observing Armistice Day in the form of an assembly program. . . . On November 15 . . . Miss Katherine Carver, recently retired teacher of Latin at ISNU, discoursing learnedly but wittily on the "Super Race" or "The Histories of Hitler's Youthful Henchmen" or "Hitler's Germans as the Romans Knew Them."

Another November assembly . . . featuring Bienvenido N. Santos of the Philippine Islands . . . charming the student body with his broad smile and clipped Filipino accent . . . speaking of the American customs . . . education and songs adopted by his people . . . and of the great friendship between his small country and ours . . . the possibility of English becoming the common language of the Philippines.

Concluding the November assemblies . . . the annual visit of the Vera Pearl Kemp Ensemble . . . the student body always looking forward to this hour of entertainment . . . this year, highlighting the program . . . the tin can xylophone.

INTERSESSION

The quickest, friendliest, surest way to three hours' credit? The answer is easy . . . Intersession, of course . . . something new that has been added . . . not a small insignificant thing, however . . . a "come before and after" . . . between regular spring and summer sessions.

Extensive . . . one course . . . three hours daily, five days a week, three weeks . . . no distraction between . . . a way for interested students to live out of this world.

Just a glimpse now and then of a teachers' college during the regular year . . . the Navy V-12 Unit in white uniforms playing a prominent part . . . work done on campus in anticipation of more to follow as an incentive to continue on further into the year . . . exams with a feeling that the first lesson can be easily remembered . . . an intimate contact with teachers, classmates, and buildings . . . advantages of having smaller classes and concentrated work . . . the novelty of day-long study without interruption . . . understanding of basic factors with work to follow up . . . hard to forget real experiences.

Entertainment special . . . tall dark magician . . . awed audience . . . a puzzle even to graduate students. One and only time men and women take physical education together in a series of lectures . . . Education carries the honor of having the most courses . . . Social Science comes a close second . . . the other fields well represented in various courses.

A pattern of assurance not usually assumed by undergraduate students . . . a background of helpful experiences and amusing incidents . . . an eye to the future with a professional attitude . . . day-long devotion to one interest . . . feet not quite quick enough to get to that class on time . . . early morning walks through the dew . . . warm mornings and drowsy afternoons with field trips as an extra pleasure . . . all these are memories of three weeks.

Teacher impressions . . . strange faces in classrooms mingling with familiar ones . . . work yet keeping a complete course . . . buoying interest day by day . . . introducing new phases to enliven longer class periods . . . sharing experiences and learning new facts gained by actual contact . . . an exciting part of the school year with an atmosphere all its own . . . a little strange perhaps, but entirely satisfying.

Purposes . . . for professional advancement of teachers already out in the field . . . to meet increasing standards of teaching in a modern mode of education . . . validation of lapsed certificates . . . to shorten the time necessary toward graduation of those anxious to start their careers . . . additional studies in a certain field to keep up with our changing world . . . increase competition of desirable teaching positions in our state . . . aesthetic pleasure of accomplishing something . . . to keep in the swing of education and progress.

Prediction for the new schedule . . . intersession so successful in the past year that it is a sure thing next summer . . . another opportunity for busy people to further education in a very short time . . . a quick, thorough way of nearing achievements.

Dr. L. Wallace Miller and an Advanced Natural Science class study and examine the campus evergreens.

SUMMER SCHOOL

Red geraniums . . . hot summer showers . . . Navy whites and cotton prints . . . flag raising early in the morning . . . weekly out-of-doors band concerts . . . the humming bird family renting a branch of the Tree of Heaven for a few months . . . summer session invades ISNU.

Entertainment series highlighted by the Russian trio . . . Earle Spicer by special request, "Up from Zomerzet," Shakespeare quiz, ballads . . . captivating Judith Magee, Stage Door Canteen hostess and window store dummy rolled into one . . . J. Donald Adams on "regional writing," tales of Mark Twain, sagas of the Pacific Northwest.

Summer session show . . . general chairmanship of Dr. Leslie A. Holmes . . . band playing throughout the show with Mr. Wayne F. Sherrard directing . . . magic . . . daring feats on the swinging ladders . . . Dr. Karl Bleyl "milking" the rattlesnake . . . parade of the blue-bloods . . . "Ye Old Countree Dances" . . . Indian club exhibition . . . the Hileman sisters and their twinkling batons . . . pageant of allied nations . . . stirring finale of fireworks . . . m.c.ing of Mr. Harry F. Admire . . . students and townspeople flooding the campus . . . never a dull moment.

Eleventh annual educational exhibit . . . art supplies staining fingers . . . modern maps . . . new books . . . pamphlets . . . "Postwar Education" discussed at Educational conference . . . Parent-Teacher and Reading clinics . . . lots of new ideas.

Sunday afternoon vespers . . . interdenominational worship services . . . Faculty "twilight lectures" featuring Dr. Nell B. Waldron, Dr. Richard G. Browne, Dr. Nina E. Gray, Miss Margaret Lawrence, Prof. W. A. L. Beyer

. . . latest information on postwar employment problems, parasitic diseases, current books and the war, people of the Philippines, presidential candidates and their platforms . . . enlightening discussion periods after each lecture.

Women's dinner . . . original sketches, "Opposite of Heaven," by Margaret Parret, . . . music . . . Betty Bremer, Pat Cheseboro, Mary Ellen Price, Mrs. T. E. Rine . . . garden flowers on every table . . . "little red school house" theme of the decorations . . . Miss Bernice Frey and Pat Moore, general chairmen.

Men's picnic . . . box-hockey and volley-ball to whet the appetite . . . rain or shine, food . . . Handzig's V-12 band and impromptu floor show . . . community singing to top off the evening.

Play nights . . . ping-pong, volley-ball under the stars, friendly competition . . . Intramural baseball series . . . McDonald's one-hit pitching . . . Wolves versus the Tigers . . . golf and swimming.

Student teaching . . . going on as usual . . . Prof. Floyd T. Goodier supervising the Normal Vacation Bible School, a new laboratory for practice teaching . . . helping children overcome speech defects at Dr. F. L. D. Holmes' speech clinic . . . speech majors gaining practical experience.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hostettler first to enroll in ISNU graduate school . . . special education classes . . . total enrollment of 930 . . . assignments and sunburn . . . classes everyday . . . ISNU service men visiting the campus . . . Sgt. Reeve Norton, Ensign Bill Hodge, Lt. John Morley . . . exchanging ideas with experienced teachers . . . meeting new people . . . renewing old acquaintances . . . a summer well spent.

ADULT EDUCATION

In its third year, the adult education program of Illinois State Normal University . . . weekly classes for seven consecutive Monday and Tuesday nights . . . bus drivers, housewives, high school pupils, college students, business men, sales clerks, teachers, gardeners, public utility workers—all may share this experience . . . the one dollar fee covers mailing costs and helps defray expenses of supplies for the courses . . . University faculty members donate their time as instructors.

Program came about at the recommendation of the advisory committee on public relations . . . a poll of public interest determines choice of course offerings each semester . . . no entrance requirements, no course prerequisites, no exams, no grades, no credit toward any kind of graduation . . . a learning activity for those of the community who are genuinely interested in some special topic . . . not a form of college or post-graduate work.

Fourteen courses offered during the first semester sessions this year . . . 183 persons registered. . . . Sixteen courses scheduled for second semester . . . another class in clothing workshop added to take care of overflow registration the first night . . . 245 participated, the high in attendance so far.

Reveals large spread of ability among faculty members. . . . Among those giving of their time to this educational venture in the Bloomington-Normal vicinity . . . Miss Olivia Hansen, H. O. Reed, Dr. Ray M. Stombaugh, Dr. Gladys Bartle, Mrs. Mae C. Warren, O. L. Young, L. E. Laubaugh, Dr. F. L. D. Holmes, Miss Edna Gueffroy, Dr. Nell B. Waldron, Dr. John A. Kinneman, Miss Esther Vinson, Dr. Herbert Hiett, Emeritus Dean H. H. Schroeder, Dr. Claude Dillinger, Dr. C. F. Malmberg, Dr. F. R. Glasener.

An attempt is made to meet any demand for course offerings . . . domestic courses . . . typewriting, making projects with tin cans, woodworking handicrafts, metal crafts, clothing workshop, fruit growing, vegetable gardening, the parent and the speech of the child, the family in wartime . . . current problems and world affairs . . . philosophy and living, everyday psychology for the employer and the employee, problems of re-conversion . . . cultural studies . . . the Pacific Islands, discovering poetry, Shakespeare, the Far East.

 Center—Seeing double? They're the redbird cheerleaders
 Middle right—classes are out, adjourned to the halls
 Lower left—What's buzzin'? Never a dull (or quiet) moment at Four Corners Lower right—long dresses, lowered ceiling, a good orchestra, and your favorite date—who could want more for a summer evening?

SILK SCREENING

The silk screening process used in making the colored illustrations on the five division pages in this book was used centuries ago in the Orient. It was introduced to this country only a few years ago and is new to year books.

The process is a stencil type in which a separate cutting is made for each color to be used in the picture. A film on the screen blocks out all the space except the spots and lines to receive a given color, which means that there must be as many screens for one picture as there are colors. The screen is stretched tightly on a wood frame and the page to be printed is placed under it. After paint is poured onto the screen, a rubber squeegee is pulled across the cut-out design to force the paint through. When the frame is lifted, the print is removed and placed on a table to dry so that the next color can be applied.

Instructing the staff and assisting them in the production was Preston Ensign, University Business Manager and professional artist. The pictures were designed by Dorothy Sherrard, Barbara Kraft, and Seaman Charles Schridde of the art staff with the aid of Mrs. Mary Parker, art adviser.

After the designs were made, the silk screens cut, the paints mixed to the desired shade, at least six hours of time, energy, and disposition of each of five persons were required to complete the process for each of the four colors on each of the five colored prints in each of the 1100 books. (Multiply it out for yourself!) All the staff members (enrolled in School and College Annual, English 270), as well as their three faculty advisers, have co-operated to give each of you these five handmade colored pictures for your 1945 Index.

Price, Moore, Simpson, Tillmonn, and Kroft apply white point to the gray background paper through the silk-screen stencil.

Mr. Ensign takes time out to examine the finished product with art editor Kraft while Price, Simpson, and Sherrard apply the final color to the prints of Milner Library and North Hall.

MEMORIES AND VISIONS

Freshman Week . . . stiff knees from climbing from third floor Old Main to third floor Science . . . that senior campus sister seemed to take it so easy . . . # IN MEMORIAM

Miss Erma Imboden

. . . died September 8, 1944 . . .
For twenty-five years Miss Imboden served on the faculty after she had graduated from ISNU. She was Index editor in 1918.

About Miss Imboden, supervising teacher in the eighth grade of the Thomas Metcalf school, Dr. J. W. Carrington, director of the school, wrote:

Miss Erma Imboden typified teaching at its best. . . . She possessed that rare influence that caused children to want to learn. . . . Her influence caused children to grow in mental, social, physical, and spiritual stature. . . . Her classroom was always democracy in operation. . . . Her work is not finished because what she gave to her pupils, to parents of pupils, to her student teachers, and to her co-workers lives on.
